Hankow, October 17.—After four days of complete isolation owing to the heavy fighting around Wusueh, 73 miles below Hankow, a limited river service has been resumed, revealing that the American steamer Iping was under heavy fire on October 15 near Ichang and was boarded the following day by northern Chinese soldiers. An armed guard from the El Cano was sent to clear the invaders but the soldiers, after refusing to leave it, dropped down near the gunboat Palos, under the menace of whose gun they evacuated.

The British gunboat Bee received a fusillade while escorting the merchantman Ping from Ichang to Hankow. There were many hits with the cabins of the admiral and captain pierced. The Bee replied with machine gunfire. A British passenger boat was fired on above Wusueh.

Stubborn Fighting. Stubborn fighting continues on both banks of the Yangtze above Wusueh, with five gunboats and three armed transports aiding the northern forces. General Sun Chuan-fang's forces are nine miles above Wusueh, on the north bank where the heaviest fighting is taking place. The nationalists claim Chinese were driven back eight miles under gunboat fire.

Railway reports indicate that Marshal Wu Pei fu is about to launch an attack on the Cantonese forces at Sin Yang Chow in southern Eshan.

Automobiles, Tires and Accessories

If you lived away up North, and your old auto was about through, or you needed a new set of tires, a new battery or some other accessory, you might be justified in trying to get through the winter without buying; for it is getting close to the time when many Northern autoists use their machines very little.

But in this latitude we run our machines every day of the year—in winter almost as much as in the summer. If you need a new auto you might as well get it now, and the wear on tires and batteries is harder in the colder months.

Constitution advertisements give you full information about autos, both new and good used cars. And in nearly every issue you will find advertisements of tires, batteries and other accessories. Read the advertisements carefully and make your selections.

Borglum Statue Model of Stephens Approved

ATLANTA U. D. C. VIEWS SKETCH

BY BEN COOPER.
Gutzon Borglum's sketch model of Alexander H. Stephens, vice president of the Confederacy, who will be memorialized in the Hall of Fame, was given enthusiastic approval Sunday afternoon by the committee of Atlanta chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, who viewed the plaster figure at the Sam Venable home at Ponce de Leon avenue and Oakdale road.

Members of Atlanta chapter will be given an opportunity Tuesday to inspect the sketch model at the regular meeting of the organization at the U. D. C. hall, 156 Juniper street. After the chapter meeting, the model will be returned to Mr. Borglum in San Antonio, Texas, and carving of the figure in Georgia marble will start immediately, as plans of the committee call for an unveiling in Statuary hall on Mr. Stephens' birthday, February 11.

Those who inspected the model Sunday afternoon at the Venable home included Dr. Garnett Quillian, chairman of the committee appointed by the state legislature to memorialize Mr. Stephens in the Hall of Fame; Mrs. J. M. High, donor of the funds for the carving; Mrs. Stafford Seidell, president of the U. D. C. chapter; Mrs. John Perdue, former president of the chapter; Mrs. Frank Mason and Mrs. Charles Phillips, all members of the committee in charge, and Dr. and Mrs. Plato Durham, Mrs. Chauncey Smith, Miss Nan Stephens, Mrs. Arthur Tufts and Mr. and Mrs. Womble.

The model was received Saturday by Mrs. Frank Mason from Mr. Borglum's studio in San Antonio. It stands about a foot and a half high, and represents Mr. Stephens in a seated posture in a heavy arm chair, with a scroll held by the left hand on the lap. While Mr. Borglum explained that an exact likeness was not striven for in the model, as he works up the expression on the features in the finished statue to bring out the man's character, members of the committee compared the sketch to a photograph of Mr. Stephens and ex-

NEW YORK PREPARED TO GIVE QUEEN MARIE KEYS OF CITY TODAY

Lands in America Today

MARIE, QUEEN OF RUMANIA

PRESIDENT SENDS AIDE TO WELCOME RUMANIAN QUEEN

Mayor Walker Will Sit on Marie's Left on Ride From City Hall to Station.

WASHINGTON PLANS ROYAL RECEPTION

Kellogg Will Greet Party. Queen Marie and Party Will Be Received by President.

New York, October 17.—(AP)—Father Knickerbocker today put the final strokes of etiquette to the welcoming program for Queen Marie of Rumania tomorrow.

Three bands and a platoon of mounted police will lead the parade from the Battery to city hall. Companies of army, marine and navy men will constitute the military escort.

Passengers to occupy the automobiles in the procession have been designated and definite instructions given as to whether members of the reception committee are to sit on the right or the left of the royal visitors in their automobiles. Queen Marie will occupy the first car, with Grover A. Whalen, chairman of Mayor Walker's committee, sitting at her left. In the same car will be J. Butler Wright, assistant secretary of state, representing President Coolidge, and a special secret service agent.

Walker Rides With Queen. Mayor Walker, replacing Mr. Whalen, will sit on the queen's left during the ride from city hall to the Pennsylvania station, from where she will leave for Washington.

Princess Ileana will occupy the second car, with Mrs. Vincent Astor, special envoy of the mayor, sitting at her left. Two special secret service agents will be in this automobile.

In the third car will be Prince Nicholas, with Rear Admiral Charles D. Sumner sitting to his left. There will be one special secret service agent in this automobile. Prince Hohenlohe Landenburg will be in a fourth car, accompanied by General William N. Haskell, representing Governor Smith, and Rear Admiral A. T. Long, United States naval aide to the queen.

The queen's ladies-in-waiting will

WISCONSIN JUDGE AND FIFTY OTHERS WILL FACE COURT

Perjury, Murder, Bribery, Rape Laid to Officials and Former Office-holders.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Crandon, Wis., October 17.—Political intrigue, with its resultant conspiracy against the state, violation of prohibition law, perjury, bribery, murder and rape, has involved more than 50 former Forest county public officials and office holders in indictments returned by a grand jury before Circuit Judge W. F. Quinlan here.

Forty persons, including two wealthy lumber men, were named in indictments yesterday and the grand jury is continuing the investigation which is hoped to clean up the political situation in the county, a task which several previous juries found impossible. Previous to yesterday 10 had been indicted.

County Judge Indicted.

One of the most surprising indictments was that of County Judge S. J. Conway, who is charged with others with conspiracy to defraud the state. Judge Conway is allied with the anti-Walsh faction, led by a group of prominent business men, who for years have been attempting to wrest control from J. A. Walsh, former county judge, and former district attorney. The anti-Walsh crowd was responsible for the present investigation, through its own resolution for a grand jury probe.

Among the 40 against whom indictments were returned yesterday are: J. A. Walsh, A. E. Gerner, public administrator; G. H. Dawson, district attorney; Phil Flanner and Frank Flanner. All are charged with the fixing of the inheritance tax on the estate of George Flanner, wealthy lumber man, who died two years ago. The tax was fixed at $4,000 by Judge Walsh, on a basis of $300,000 valuation, despite the fact that the elder Flanner furnished rating agencies

GIRL OF MYSTERY IN INDIANA GRAFT PROBE IS JAILED

Mildred Meade, Thought Kidnaped, Is Believed To Know Location of Stephenson Papers.

Indianapolis, Ind., October 17.—(AP)

Mildred Meade, 23-year-old girl who is alleged to have been a confidante of D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, was taken into custody today and held under $2,500 bond for appearance before the grand jury that has under investigation charges of political corruption. Miss Meade had been missing from her home here since Friday, October 8.

Authorities began a search for Miss Meade when they were given intimations that she might have knowledge as to Stephenson's affairs during the height of his power as a Klan leader. Thomas H. Adams, publisher of the Vincennes, Indiana, Commercial, whose charges of political corruption, culminated in the grand jury inquiry, has insisted that Stephenson possessed certain papers which would implicate high officials.

The publisher has also declared that Stephenson, who is serving a life sentence for the murder of Madge Oberholzer, would, if permitted, produce these papers.

Miss Meade was taken in custody at her home by Rollin Snyder, deputy sheriff. She was taken to the office of prosecuting attorney William H. Remy and after being questioned briefly was sent to the county jail. She was held there incommunicado. Officials would not say whether she had given any important information when questioned.

Newspaper reporters who learned that Miss Meade had returned to her home arrived there shortly before the deputy sheriff but were turned away by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meade, the girl's parents. The newspaper representatives saw several packages sent to an automobile, which was standing before the house, prior to the arrival of the deputy sheriff.

This case was dropped away a few minutes before the deputy came to the home.

H. L. Mencken Invades Bible, Malaria Belt

Editorial Diogenes Seeks Man for President—Smith and McAdoo 'Impossible.'

BY LOY WARWICK.

H. L. Mencken, editor of The Atlantic Mercury, the magazine with the green cover, came down into the Bible and malaria belt Sunday. With him came Paul Patterson, publisher of The Baltimore Evening Sun, on his first visit to either the old or the new south.

Mr. Mencken has been south before. One would gather such an impression from certain of his editorials. He might have lived in some sections of it. However, he mentioned the fact himself Sunday night. He had never been to Atlanta before. All he had to say about our town was that it is "perfect." Which was enough said.

For the benefit of those who are dying to have Mr. Mencken autograph the copy of The Mercury in which "Hat Rags" appeared, he leaves this morning for Columbus, there to visit with Editor Julian Harris. After that he goes to Montgomery, Ala., and then to the Pacific coast.

Although under pleasant ones, the interview was not accomplished under the best circumstances. Mr. Mencken was surrounded by a small but admiring group, as some one has said, of distinguished Atlantans. Every one of the group was distinguished in some way. Some in more ways than one.

At any rate, Mr. Mencken, who will hereinafter be referred to as "Mencken," but without the quotation marks, which are troublesome to make and not at all necessary, is a talker pretty much as he writes. Which is

Mother Kills Her Children Then Herself

Woman Leaves Note Saying She Had Failed in Duty to Them.

Los Angeles, Calif., October 17.—(AP)—Because she believed she had failed in her duty as a mother, Mrs. Ada B. Chamberlain, wife of John M. Chamberlain, Los Angeles attorney, put to death her three children, the oldest of whom was 9 years of age, and then ended her own life.

The four were found dead today in a gas-filled room in a house which the mother had rented last Friday, a few hours before she and her children disappeared from their home.

Police, reconstructing the tragedy, report that before putting her children to death the mother had treated them to a picture show. Returning to the rented house, she placed her babies in bed, gave them a sleeping powder, and then turned on the gas. While the tiny lives were being snuffed out, the mother went into an adjoining room and penned four three children.

She wrote that the two little girls, Edwin, 9, and Delany, 7, passed away quietly, but that the boy, John, Jr., 4, moaned five times. After finishing her writing, the mother calmly walked to her death in the gas-filled chamber.

In one of her notes, addressed to newspaper reporters, Mrs. Chamberlain explained that she could not let her children live in a world for which she had "failed to prepare them."

"I was capable of being a good mother, but just failed to put that duty first. Maude Adams said a girl cannot meet this world without a definite religious and home training. She knew and well knew. Let us have quiet, peaceful homes, fewer and better children," the message concluded.

RADIO EXPOSITION WILL OPEN DOORS TO PUBLIC TODAY

Maurice Francill, Air Wizard, Arrives in City for Demonstration of Remote Control.

With heavy advance ticket sales indicating a record attendance for a southern indoor exposition, the Atlanta Radio-Electrical exposition will open to the general public at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. The vanguard of out-of-town dealers and factory representatives attracted by the show began arriving Sunday. The show will be open to the public daily from 2 until 11 p. m. Saturday.

Officials of the Atlanta Radio-Trades association, of which Sam Katz is president, and the Atlanta Electrical league, headed by J. C. Martin, predict the most successful exhibit of electrical goods and electrical equipment in the south's history. Public interest manifested in the event is intense, they asserted.

To display their wares to the thousands of visitors, leading business concerns have reserved 85 booths in the auditorium. Workmen and decorators worked late Saturday night arranging the different displays and they will put the finishing touches to the exposition early Monday.

Beginning Tuesday, from noon until 2 o'clock daily, a special preview showing will be held for electrical and radio men. Only factory representatives, service men, dealers and others directly affiliated with the industries will be admitted during that period.

Francill Arrives. Maurice Francill, debonair wizard of radio, and hailed as America's leading radio entertainer, reached Atlanta Sunday with the equipment necessary

RECTOR'S WIDOW IN CHOIR PROBE WILL TAKE STAND

Mrs. Francis Stevens Hall Declares She Will Make Statement in Her Own Defense.

New Brunswick, N. J., October 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Francis Stevens Hall, under indictment for the murder of her husband, the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, will take the stand in her own defense, she announced here today.

Referring to the trial set for November 2 and to State Senator Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, she said: "When that day comes I feel that he (Senator Simpson) will receive from the jury the rebuke he so richly deserves and that New Jersey will again be a fit place to live in."

She also denied charges of bribery during the investigation of the murder four years ago and repeated her offer to let Senator Simpson examine her bank account. As to the wealth of her family she said her own net worth exceeded $300,000; her brother, Henry Stevens, $175,000; her brother, Willie Stevens, $200,000, and her cousin, Henry Carpenter, $140,000.

All are under indictment for the murders.

Fort Valley Plans Halloween Carnival

Fort Valley, Ga., October 17.—(Special).—Members of the women's organizations in Fort Valley announce a big street carnival for Halloween night to be held on the main city block. These Halloween carnivals have become annual affairs, sponsored by the women's clubs and Kiwanis club, to provide wholesome entertainment for the young folks of the city.

Constitution's Elephant Race Under Way; Thousands Join

"ADD 'EM UP" AND WIN CASH PRIZE

The Constitution elephant race—

with 30 cash awards totaling $4,400—is officially on. This new classic of the arithmetical turn got under way Sunday after the Sunday Constitution was delivered to thousands of Georgia and southern homes early yesterday morning and indications are that the ranks of the racers will be swelled daily.

The problem of the new elephant game introduced by The Constitution is to compute the weight of the pachyderm whose figure is composed of a large number of figures.

In a full page advertisement appearing in this issue of The Constitution may be found full details of the elephant game, together with a big picture of the elephant himself.

First prize in the game is fixed at $2,000 cash; second prize at $1,000, and 28 additional prizes of big amount are offered winners in the event—the entire amount involve totaling $4,400.

LOSS OF $750,000 LAID TO FIREBUGS

Dothan Blaze Is Climax to Score of Attempts Which Followed Fire-Prevention Week.

Dothan, Ala., October 17.—Two fires of supposed incendiary origin threatened the downtown district here today and caused more than $750,000 damages.

Today's conflagrations climaxed more than a score of attempts during the past three weeks to burn property in Dothan.

This morning a cotton warehouse and its contents, and a live stock stable and 13 mules were burned. Late today an old cotton compress, a wholesale grocery and several residences and stores were destroyed.

The first fire was brought under

Victory For Democracy In Senate Races To End Bloc System, Says Gerry

Value of Government Based on Two-Party System Shown by Senatorial Committee Chairman.

Providence, R. I., October 17.—(AP) U. S. Senator Peter O. Gerry, of Rhode Island, chairman of the democratic senatorial committee, today declared that a democratic majority in the senate would mean "a return to party government and the doing away with the bloc system which now exists."

"Our American government was founded on a two-party system," he continued, "the majority to lay down its policies and to be responsible for them; the minority to criticize and so bring before the public the weakness of the majority's program."

Hits Bloc System.

"Under this system the public could determine which program they favored, and at the election change the government if they saw fit, with the knowledge of what change would mean in legislation. With the bloc system, consisting of three or more groups, there is no responsibility and no sureness of any policy being carried out.

"Legislative results and not talk is what should be aimed at, and this can only be done by putting the control of our government into the hands of a united party, and the democratic party is the united party."

"Consider for a moment what will happen if the control of congress should be put in the hands of the divided republican party. It would be virtually impossible for the people to make their desires on legislation prevail, because some committees would be controlled by the stand-pat republicans and others by the so-called progressive republicans."

Series of Bargains.

"These two factions would have to make a series of bargains, and the natural result would be that the business of congress would be conducted not in accordance with the principles of legislative efficiency, but of the worst kind of partisan expediency. Congress will become as helpless as any of those European legislatures that are bedeviled by the existence of many blocs.

"The founding fathers never contemplated such a state of chaos as now exists in the republican party. They believed that the development of our political history would come through the clash between a party of progress and a party of conservatism. The party of progress which they foresaw exists in the democratic party of today, but where is the party of conservatism? The republicans claim title but no one knows whether if returned to power their policies would be determined by Senator Curtis, of Kansas, who regards President Coolidge as an ideal leader, or by Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, who does not.

No Chance for G. O. P.

"If returned to power, the republicans cannot possibly organize the congress in a day to carry out the ideals of efficient American government. The republicans, say, for instance, promise early tax reduction, because they will have found that the democratic campaign for it has won around with the people. But republican leaders cannot make good on their promises because they will not have a united congressional delegation behind them.

"The democratic party, on the other hand, is fully warranted in promising the passage of a bill for tax reduction should it control congress, because our party has proven that it is capable of organized effective action on important issues and can be relied upon to put through constructive measures, as it did under Woodrow Wilson."

RADIO EXPOSITION WILL OPEN TODAY

for his impressive demonstrations of remote control of machinery by use of radio waves. He is a guest at the Ansley hotel.

Francill went directly to the auditorium and unpacked the eight-foot replica of a dreadnaught whose movements he will direct by radio. This unique performance will be given twice daily, at 3:30 p. m. and 9:15 p. m., on a special stage constructed eight feet above the regular auditorium stage. It is the same feat which amazed audiences of 8,000 twice daily during the recent radio exposition in Boston. The little battleship is made to move about, mounted on concealed wheels, and to raise its flag, blink its lights and fire a miniature cannon by means of radio waves controlled from one switch by Francill.

Remote Control Test.

On Monday morning Francill will go to the showrooms of the Martin Nash company and get a stock model Nash automobile, equip it with specially made radio appliances and take it to Taft hall, where he will give his famous automobile control exhibition during the exposition.

By using only one switch and one wave length, Francill will stop and start the motor, flash and extinguish the lights, and blow and silence the horn. Public inspection of the machine will be allowed to give assurance there are no concealed wires, it is stated.

Other novel examples of radio magic will be the manipulating of a pump handle from which soda water will flow; and the flashing of small electric lights in rotation or alternately or in the order of the alphabet.

While Francill's display of uncanny skill with the unseen power will undoubtedly furnish considerable food for thought to the thousands of radio fans here, they will also be entertained by Miss Nellie Sullivan and her "Radio Revue." Six widely known young Atlanta dancers will take part in the number, the most spectacular of which will be "Black Bottom," wherein watermelon costumes will be worn, and "Tamiara Trail," an Indian costume novelty. Miss Freda Sullivan, small sister of the principal, will offer a novelty solo dance.

Accompanying the dances and rendering special concert numbers will be Mark Goff's Pennsylvania orchestra, already widely known in the south through stage engagements and radio broadcasts.

On-to-Hollywood Race.

Sale of tickets by the group of well-known young Atlanta women in the "On-to-Hollywood" contest reached a fast pace Saturday night, according to Foster B. Steward, managing director of the show. Saturday was the final day for the sale of tickets at the special reduced price, and the contestants rebuffed their efforts. Reports tabulated last night showed there has been no change in the standing of the five leading contestants, who are Miss Thelma Kimberly, of 99 Park drive, first; Miss Mary Hildway, Atlanta, Baltimore, second; Mrs. Mary Allen, 279 South Whiteford avenue, third; Mrs. Blanche Fincher, Otis Elmore, fourth; and Miss Freddie Bailey, fifth. When final returns are made next Saturday the leader will be given a free trip to Hollywood, Cal., while the one achieving second place will be given a similar vacation in New York. A transferable scholarship in the Southern Shortland and Business university will be the third prize.

S. W. Edwards, supervisor of radio at Detroit, and J. E. Brown, radio inspector in that district, are in Atlanta with the specially built radio test truck. The novel automobile was placed in the corridor of the auditorium yesterday for inspection during the show.

Radio Receiving Contest.

He said the machine is equipped with a Kolster direction finder which is used in locating unlicensed stations. So valuable has the automobile proved since its construction a year ago, the government plans to build similar machines for the various other radio districts. One will be assigned to Major Walter Van Nostrand, Jr., here at Atlanta, it is stated.

Theodore G. Deiler, supervisor of radio at New Orleans, will reach Atlanta Thursday to visit the show and to inspect the novel test truck.

The special train from New York will be met at the Union station by the Secretary of State and Mrs. Frank B. Kellogg, who will formally receive the royal party. Representatives of the army and navy, the diplomatic corps, soldiers, sailors, marines, civilians and military bands also will participate in the welcoming demonstration at the station.

WASHINGTON PLANS ROYAL RECEPTION.

Washington, October 17.—(AP)—Rumania's royal visitors, headed by Queen Marie, will be as royally received and entertained in Washington as the facilities of the nation's capital permit. Their arrival late tomorrow was all that was needed to day to enliven the elaborate program prepared for them.

The Leviathan will be met at Quarantine tomorrow morning by a United States revenue cutter carrying Federal and Rumanian officials, and the "Macom" bearing the mayor's reception committee headed by Mr. Whalen and Mrs. Astor.

The queen and her party will board the "Macom" and be taken to the Battery, arriving there at 11 o'clock. From there they will go to City hall to take the train for Washington, and later to the Pennsylvania station to take the train for Washington.

A group of Rumanian business men came to New York today from Philadelphia to see if they could make some arrangements with those in charge of the queen's tour for a reception by Rumanians in Philadelphia, George Fours, speaking for the party, said that they had not received official sanction from Washington and had failed to obtain recognition from the mayor of Philadelphia.

control at 2 p. m. and watchmen set over the burning cotton, which will smolder for many days. The second fire was brought under control at 7 o'clock.

An old man suffered a broken leg, when someone threw a ball of burning cotton on him, knocking him down. Late this afternoon it seemed that the second fire might spread to the residential section when the flames were fanned by a high wind. Because of inroads made on the city's water supply by the first fire, lack of water hampered the battle against the second fire. Hundreds of civilians were pressed into service by the fire department. Household effects from hundreds of homes were moved into the street in the supposed path of the fire.

Police are searching for the "fire bug" who is supposed to have started the fires. No motive for the incendiarism has been advanced. Peculiarly, since the inception of Fire Prevention week, on October 3, an average of two attempts daily have been made to burn property here.

Will Take Stand

LA FOLLETTE ASKS PROGRESSIVE HELP

Washington, October 17.—(AP)—An appeal to his supporters not to be discouraged over the loss of the governorship in the recent Wisconsin primary and to work unremittingly for the election of the "progressive" ticket, is made by Senator La Follette in a signed editorial to appear in the next issue of La Follette's Magazine.

Declaring that the nomination of Fred R. Zimmerman for governor represented "a reverse to progressive, constructive government within the state," he said the "progressives" were not to be disheartened "by this partial defeat won by their enemies through subtleties and deception."

He called on them to work "unceasingly" for the election of Governor John J. Blaine, "the La Follette progressive republican nominee for the senate," and for the other "progressive republican" nominees for the house of representatives and state.

"Flushed with their partial victory in the primary, the reactionary forces of the state and nation, the same forces which succeeded in nominating Mr. Zimmerman governor, are now endeavoring to play the same game in the election contest for senator," the editorial added.

Asserting that from a national viewpoint, Wisconsin "has once again repudiated the Coolidge big business regime," Senator La Follette urged the "progressives" to "close ranks" and prepare for the contests of 1928, firm in the conviction that truth may lose a battle but it has never lost a war.

MODEL BY BORGLUM GIVEN APPROVAL

pressed the opinion that a faithful facial resemblance conveying an almost lifelike expression was there.

Original Plan Discarded.

The committee declared that Mr. Borglum has made the spirituality of the noted Georgian the keynote of the carving, bringing out the strength of character of the man who made himself, in spite of difficulties, perhaps because of them, one of the greatest orators and statesmen of his time. There is the suggestion of the piercing black eyes of the living Stephens, while subtle touches of the sculptor give the model the impression of his day had of Mr. Stephens, on fire with mental energy.

The original plan for the memorial was to present Mr. Stephens in a wheel chair, as he spent the last dozen years of his life in it, but at the wish of his relatives, and in accordance with his own expressed desire, it was decided that the seated figure conveying just the faintest suggestion of physical infirmity, in spite of its erectness, but emphasizing more the mental caliber of the man, would be the appropriate motif.

The plaster figure gives the impression of height, for Mr. Stephens was six feet tall, though he weighed only 100 pounds. Strength of character is portrayed in every line of the sketch, suggestive of the man who born in Crawfordville, went to the state legislature, and then to congress, became vice president of the Confederacy when the southern states left the union, and died after a month in the governor's chair, closing a life made glorious through his gift of magnetic qualities and persuasive eloquence.

Lifelike Reproduction.

Alexander H. Stephens was selected in 1902 by a committee of distinguished Georgians as one of two men from Georgia to occupy niches in the Hall of Fame. Mrs. J. M. High furnished the funds for the carving, and the statue will be presented to the government for the Hall of Fame by the Atlanta chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Col. Sam Tate supplied Georgia marble from the quarries at Tate, at the actual expense of quarrying the material, and the marble has been shipped to Mr. Borglum's San Antonio studio.

An invitation to view the model at the Atlanta U. D. C. chapter house will be extended to the families of Dr. Robert Stephens, Judge Alex Stephens and Robert Lee Avery, all relatives of Mr. Stephens.

An address on Alexander H. Stephens will be delivered early in December by Dr. Quillian at the meeting of the Exchange club, as one of a series of lectures to be given on 12 distinguished Georgians of earlier times by 12 latter-day Georgians of prominence.

If any doubt remained in the mind of any one at the private showing at the Venable home Sunday afternoon that the model was a likeness of anyone but Mr. Stephens, that doubt was dispelled by Sam Venable, who knew Mr. Stephens intimately as one of his closest friends.

Mr. Venable took a long look at the sketch from several angles, bowed his head at a dear memory, and remarked: "That's Alex Stephens all over."

Woman Searches Rogues' Gallery For Gem Bandits

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, October 17.—Still suffering from the shock of their terrifying experience, Mrs. William M. Calder, wife of the former United States senator from New York; her daughter, two guests and her chauffeur, spent two hours today poring over the rogues' gallery at police headquarters in an effort to identify the three bandits who held them up and robbed them of $13,000 worth of jewelry Saturday night.

Although assisted by Police Commissioner McLaughlin, Inspector Sullivan, of Brooklyn, and the pick of Inspector Coughlin's staff, the victims were unable to recognize any of the photographs in the identification bureau's gallery of hold-up men.

Returning from Theater.

Mrs. Calder was robbed while returning from the theater with, among others, her daughter, Mrs. Robert C. Lee, wife of the Republican candidate for congress from the fifth New York election district, and Mrs. William Harlow. Wallace Roselle, the chauffeur, Mrs. Roselle, occupied the chauffeur's seat.

As the limousine pulled up in front of Mrs. Lee's home in Brooklyn, three men jumped into the car and forced the chauffeur to give up the wheel. While one bandit drove the machine through the Prospect Park section, past a police station and several policemen, the other two forced the women to surrender their jewelry.

When Mrs. Calder started to scream one of the bandits put a revolver to her head and ordered: "Keep your mouth shut or I'll give you the works!"

Concurs Her Watch.

Mrs. Calder, however, had sufficient presence of mind to conceal a $2,500 watch, a Christmas gift from her husband, so that it escaped the eyes of the robbers.

The Calder car from which the occupants were ejected after the robbery was found a mile away where the robbers abandoned it.

MARIETTA MAN KILLED IN CRASH

Asheville, Ala., October 17.—(AP)—L. N. Trammell, 48, of Marietta, Ga., was killed here this afternoon when he lost control of the automobile he was driving to Birmingham, and which crashed into two trees in the center of town.

The victim had just been transferred to the branch managership of the General Motors Acceptance corporation at Birmingham, and was on the way to assume his new duties when the accident occurred.

FUNERAL TODAY IN MARIETTA.

Marietta, Ga., October 17.—(Special.)—Funeral services will be held here Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, from the residence of M. L. McNeel, for Leonidas Newton Trammell, who was killed in an automobile accident in Alabama Sunday afternoon. Rev. J. H. Patton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will officiate. Interment will be in the local cemetery.

According to reports received here, Mr. Trammell was the only occupant of the car at the time of the accident. He was returning to Birmingham after attending the Tech-Alabama football game in Atlanta.

Mr. Trammell was one of Marietta's most highly esteemed citizens and has a host of friends over the state who will be shocked to learn of his death. For some time he has been engaged in the automobile business in Birmingham, although he claimed Marietta as his residence. He was a brother of the late Paul B. Trammell, of Dalton.

He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Mabel Brumby, formerly of Athens and Chattanooga; one brother, Will Trammell, of Habersham; four sisters, Mrs. W. L. Pomeroy, of Atlanta; Mrs. Frank Boston, of Atlanta; Mrs. J. M. Cartwright and Mrs. W. L. Sessions, of Birmingham.

Dolbins & Sons, local undertakers, are in charge of the funeral plans.

Avoid Excess Uric Acid!

Good Elimination is Essential to Good Health.

Our bodies are continually manufacturing uric acid from the food we eat and the breaking down of tissue. This is a normal process of the body. And uric acid is a normal constituent of the blood. Ordinarily our kidneys are quite capable of filtering out these bodily wastes. It is only when uric acid is permitted to accumulate in excess that trouble comes. Under certain conditions an excess of uric acid accumulates beyond the functional ability of the kidneys to remove it. Such individuals are said to be "gouty."

Symptoms are a soreness and stiffness of the joints and muscles, and a tired, nervous, depressed feeling. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is sometimes shown by scanty or burning passage of secretion.

Authorities agree the kidneys are the principal eliminative organs of uric acid. Dan's Pills, stimulant diuretic to the kidneys, have thousands of endorsements in uric acid troubles. Doan's stimulate the kidneys to greater activity and assist them to flush away the excess uric acid. Ask your neighbor!

'My Life Story'

Written by Rudolph Valentino

Natacha has written and assuredly had been a college chum of my father's. He couldn't come because he was ill in bed, so we went by his car. I was very anxious to see him. As I went in he said, "My God, you aren't little Rudolph, are you?" I said, "Yes." And then, after a moment, he said, "You are!" He began crying like a child. It was one of the most moving greetings I had had since I came to America. He put his arms around my neck and said, "Sit down by me."

Just, I felt, as if I had been his son. We sat down for a while, and never have I been so eagerly, so interestedly, questioned about my career and all its ups and downs. He was a vividly interested in every detail as if he had lived through them all himself, and was anxious for me as if I had been indeed one of his sons. It was a fine exhibition of friendship.

ACCIDENT VICTIM

EXPECTED TO DIE

B. F. Camp, Sr., of Center Hill, was probably fatally injured Sunday morning when he was struck down and run over by an automobile while walking on his way to church. He is in Grady hospital suffering from fractured skull, and physicians hold little hope for his recovery.

Five other victims, three of them children, were claimed by traffic accidents during Sunday.

Miss Sue Phillips, 15 years of age, of 515 North Jackson street, suffered a dislocated hip when she was struck by a car driven by Dr. H. M. Grady, as she attempted to cross the street at Ponce de Leon avenue and Jackson street. The negro was arrested and charged with reckless driving.

Harry Eerchen, 9 years old, of 546 South Pryor street, narrowly escaped death under the wheels of an automobile when he was struck down near his home Sunday afternoon. He was treated for cuts and bruises at Grady.

S. A. Fagan, 68, of Winder, Ga., was painfully injured when the car in which he was riding struck a hole in the road and threw him against the top of the car. Several of his lower teeth were knocked out and he was badly shaken up.

J. C. Campbell, an 8-year-old boy living in Lakewood, was badly bruised when he was struck by an automobile near his home Sunday morning. He was not seriously injured.

Another narrow escape from death was reported to police. E. C. Smith, 43, of East Point, a railroad car inspector, was knocked down and almost under the wheels of a box car Sunday afternoon. He received slight bruises.

Mr. Camp was on his way to church Sunday morning with members of his family when he received injuries which Grady doctors believe will claim his life. He had walked on ahead of the group and was out of sight around a bend in the road, near Center Hill. Those with whom he had been walking found him lying beside the road unconscious. He was rushed to Grady hospital and had not regained consciousness at an early hour this morning.

Warren-Glascock

FAIR OPENS TUESDAY

Warrenton, Ga., October 17.—(Special.)—Featured by bumper crop exhibits, the annual "Queen's Parade" and homecoming day for the Boys' and Girls' clubs the fourth annual Warren-Glascock fair will open Tuesday, and indications are that all attendance records will be shattered.

The Zedman and Polle shows, which played at the state fair at Savannah; the Southeastern fair at Atlanta, and the Chattahoochee Valley fair at Columbus have been selected, according to fair officials, as the midway attraction. The numerous riding devices will be new novelties.

The grounds have been put in excellent condition and the new agricultural exhibits building is assured of completion in time to house its quota of the exhibits.

Tuesday will be school children's day and the management has given free tickets to all school children and teachers in the two counties, and is offering prizes to the schools that bring 100 per cent of their attendance. Over 5,000 are expected to attend.

On Wednesday the "fair queen," accompanied by her entire royal court, will visit the fair. At 11 o'clock the parade of floats, headed by the queen's float, will proceed through the main street of Warrenton to the fair grounds.

The queen's parade will be followed by the Chevrolet parade, a special feature, prizes being given to the best decorated Chevrolet cars. At 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the Ku Klux Klan will stage a parade.

Thursday will be "queen's day," and at 7 o'clock the queen will be crowned at a coronation ceremony, after which a pageant will be staged.

Homecoming day for the Boys' and Girls' clubs will be Friday. As a special feature on that day, the management has arranged with the boys' and girls' pig, cotton, corn and poultry clubs of the two counties to exhibit products grown this year.

Saturday will be negro day.

After sawing through three heavy chains, a prisoner, a serious job which must have required two men, was freed from the Fulton Tower.

But, it so happened that just at that time a member of the jail force zoned knowingly at the three bars in Markovitz' cell, which he had replaced to avoid discovery. With a wild yell of despair, the prisoner jumped from his cot and kicked the sawed sections to the floor.

"By golly—there it is," he said, and then sank down upon his bed, a broken-hearted man.

Early Saturday night, J. C. Bazemore, head jailer, received a telephone message from a well-known Atlanta minister, who said that he had been told by a prisoner, released that day, that an escape was being planned by one of the men held in the tower.

Attempt Frustrated.

Mr. Bazemore began a thorough search of the jail, which was taken up by Deputy Sheriff R. C. McGee and Fred Lyons, assistant engineer, when Mr. Bazemore went off duty at 11:30 o'clock Saturday night. At 8 o'clock Sunday morning, the two jailers reached Markovitz' cell. They scrutinized every bar and were working around to where the man sat, when Mr. McGee's eyes fell on the tell-tale marks left by the prisoner's saw.

Then Markovitz threw up the sponge. During the time he had been hard at work sawing through the toughest steel in the world, Markovitz had been busy on other necessary instruments of escape. He had woven a rope of bed ticking which was long enough to reach the back courtyard four stories below. The rope was stout and closely woven, and easily strong enough to support a man twice Markovitz' 115 pounds.

Arrest Is Expected.

After removing the sections from his cell bars, Markovitz gained admission to the corridor, and had almost completed the business of sawing out three bars in the outer window.

Mr. Bazemore stated that it was the first time in the history of the jail that bars of the type had been saved, due to their unusual strength and toughness.

Clews to the identity of the person who smuggled the saws into the prison were in Mr. Bazemore's hands, he said, and an arrest is expected at early hour.

Markovitz was sentenced to seven

HUMAN NATURE

On the Half Shell

BY JOSEPH VAN RAALTE.

SIN TAKES THE COUNT.

There is a current belief that New York is the most sinful city in the western hemisphere and with the possible exception of Paris, the most sinful in the world.

The busiest corner in New York, the corner traversed by the greatest number of persons on any given day, is Fifth avenue and Forty-second street. Therefore, it would be logical to expect this to be the happy hunting ground of sin.

Toward midnight the other evening, a customer dropped into one of the two cigar stores on this corner and the clerk seated behind the counter, reading, while the clerk was hunting for this customer's favorite Flor de Ropo, the customer glanced across the counter. He saw the clerk sitting there on a high stool, just big enough for a book, the shelf being so arranged that it could be shoved back under the showcase during the rush.

But the clerk had left his book in plain sight and the customer noticed that it was somebody's "Life of Christ."

Surprised to find such a book in such a place, the customer forgot to take his premium coupons and sauntered thoughtfully away. It occurred to him that a lot of people had been reading books lately which were not exactly religious, in a churchy way, but which got down to the facts upon which religions are based.

There seemed to be quite a lot of curiosity about God and Jesus, not connected with any "ism" or "ology."

Not many years ago preachers were men who wore different clothes from most people and felt that their duty was confined to talking about religion and that sort of thing. Gradually they went into offices, took up golf and bridge in a serious way, and upon the slightest provocation, addressed meetings of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs. It was a tactical error.

Men and women who formerly accepted the word of the pastor as final in religious matters, began to wonder if he was so all-fired omniscient as he seemed.

If a man habitually sliced his drive, bid "no trumps" on a weak hand, and wore plus fours that made him look like something out of the funny paper, could his judgment on other matters be trusted? If he could be wrong so often in purely earthly affairs, was it not a fair gamble that he might now and then slip a cog in his spiritual reasoning?

Consequently, as a caste, the minister began to lose his grip. People began to ask questions. They wanted more facts behind the doctrines of original sin, predestination, and eternal punishment. This is the reason that books like "The Life of Christ" and "This Believing World" are selling like popular novels.

Innocent Man Is Released

COMPENSATION FUND IS PLANNED

After Serving Six Years

BY EARL J. JOHNSON.

Chicago, October 17.—How much cash would you take in exchange for six years of freedom?

That was the question the figure on the basis of your earning power, at so much per year, or is freedom worth as much to one man as to another?

These have become important questions to the state of Illinois in an affair with Henry Schmidt. For six years the state kept Schmidt locked up in the penitentiary at Joliet before learning that it had made a mistake—that another man had committed the robbery for which Schmidt was sentenced.

Now Schmidt has been given his freedom again, but it doesn't mean much after six years. He hasn't a job, can't get his old one back, and many of those with whom he used to work at a factory have raised themselves to good positions.

Hinton G. Clabaugh, head of the parole board, said he and his associates were attempting to find some way to repay Schmidt for the state provided no funds for correcting its own mistakes. He suggested that a subscription fund be raised to help Schmidt catch up with the six years of freedom that have escaped him.

"But, how much should he be given?" Clabaugh asked. "He was earning only about $5 a day when he was arrested, and even if he had the equivalent of that salary for six years he wouldn't be much better off."

Schmidt was arrested in the autumn of 1920 on a charge of robbery with a gun. With him were convicted Mike Valina and Andrew Bole, who told the police at the time of their arrest that they had been assisted in the robbery by a man named Smith. Through a police error, due to the similarity in names, Schmidt was arrested. He failed to prove a solid alibi, and was convicted and sent to prison without ever seeing the two men who had accused him.

Chicago, October 17.—(AP)—A gang of more than a dozen rascals early today blew the doors off of five cases of the Kellogg Switchboard and Supply company and escaped with loot estimated at $33,000 after capturing nine night watchmen in the plan. The robbers, employees said, entered the building through a coal chute. J. B. Edwards, president of the firm, estimated that the loss would approximate $33,000 in cash, $15,000 in negotiable securities and platinum valued at $15,000.

Led "Moon Arrow" in the costume of a Cherokee Indian princess the procession will lead across the Balsam mountains, through the famous Nantahala gorge, and the historic Cowee mountains down through Georgia to Gainesville, where the party will be greeted by a great municipal celebration and an open air dance at night.

Governor-elect Hardman, of Georgia, will meet the party at the Georgia state line, and after an address of welcome and response by James G. Stikeleather, highway commissioner for the ninth North Carolina district, the motorcade will proceed to New Gap, Ga., where morning pictures of the party will be made.

Major John H. Cathey, who was prevented by official business from joining the party, will be at Park square tomorrow morning to bid the delegates God-speed.

Adolph Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, and Henry Morgenthau, former ambassador to Turkey, were conveyed into Asheville and Kenilworth in tonight at 7:30 o'clock by three motorcycle officers and four automobiles which made up the Appalachian Scenic highway via Weaverville, Burnsville and Spruce Pine, a distance of 75 miles, to meet the guests from New York.

Roscoe E. Marvel, international president of the A. S. H. Highway Commissioner James G. Stikeleather, Chief Marshal John H. Ewert, Field Representative Woodley C. Merritt, Congressman Zebulon Weaver and Harlee Branch and Mr. Sparks, of the Atlanta Journal, constituted the main personnel of the welcoming delegation which met the prominent New Yorkers and led them into "the land of the sky" over new links of the Appalachian Scenic highway, which will well deserve its middle name, "Scenic," as a perfect October sunset enriched the grandeur of western North Carolina mountain peaks.

Declaring that their entire motor trip from New York state had been most pleasant and asserting that the late evening drive into Asheville afforded them scenery unsurpassed anywhere, they had been Mr. Ochs and Ambassador Morgenthau expressed delight at being guests of President Marvel and anticipated great pleasure in the motorcade en route to Atlanta for the second annual convention of the highway association.

50 CHICAGO FIRES

CHARGED TO ARSON

(By Teased Wire to The Constitution.)

Chicago, Ill., October 17.—More than 50 destructive fires of mysterious origin since July, lead police and insurance officials to believe, that an arson plot is being carried out on a large scale here.

Eleven of these fires have been in mill work and wood working plants; 17 in lumber yards and 22 in residences and apartment houses in course of construction. Practically every one of these fires was reported between 4:30 and 6 o'clock in the morning.

AMERICAN CITIES MEETING EXPENSES

Washington, October 17.—American cities as a whole are breaking even financially and some are doing better than that.

Of 247 cities of 30,000 or more, only two failed to derive sufficient revenue to meet operating expenses and interest on bonds last year the department of commerce reports. Forty-four not only met all operating costs and interest on their standing debts, but had a surplus to cut down their bonds.

Total payments for operation, maintenance, interest and outlay for permanent improvements were 80 per cent higher than those of the 48 states and within 14 per cent of the cost of conducting the federal government.

EAST CONCESSIONS DEFEND ON BATTLE

BY CAL S. HIRSH

Shanghai, October 17.—Shanghai, the leading foreign community of the Far East, is preparing for siege by the Cantonese armies.

While a battle probable Monday at Hangchow, eight miles away, the General Sun Chung-fung have arrived at the environs of the city. Artillery pieces are being put into place and trenches are being prepared for what may be one of the most important and far-reaching engagements of China's chronic civil war.

An attack on Shanghai is feared, and it is believed that if it comes the Chinese militarists under Hsia Chao will first direct their guns at the arsenal and dockyards. It is understood that General Chiang Kai-shek, leader of the Cantonese, has bought the allegiance of Hsia Chao and that three Cantonese regiments have joined the advancing Cantonese troops.

The fate of the foreign concessions here probably will be determined by Monday's battle. Volunteers and reserves are standing by and outbreaks in the city have thus far been kept down. Alleged demonstrations in commemoration of the Wanchien incident, when hundreds of Chinese were killed by the British, failed to materialize after General Sun's officers threatened to shoot the would-be demonstrators.

The brief increases here that the first board of the Chinese steamer Kianglung at Kianglung, D. Road, was caused by incendiaries working against General Sun. The vessel carried thousands of shells for use by the Shanghai general and when the fire spread throughout the vessel 1,200 Chinese were killed by bursting ammunition and flames. Destruction of the ship, defection of the Nanjing regiments which were counted on to help stave off an attack on Shanghai and a declaration by the civil governor of Chekiang of his independence of General Sun are looked upon as preliminary steps in a concerted movement against Shanghai.

The fall of the city is believed by many to be imminent.

Liquor Problem Solution Depends On World League

Washington, October 17.—Senator James A. Reed is going to be more thankful than ever that he fought the League of Nations.

The Methodist Episcopal board of temperance, prohibition and morals, in a statement tonight, said that the solution of the liquor question, internationally, depends in large measure on the League of Nations.

"Besides other international questions the solution of which has been the power to facilitate, the League of Nations, with all the authority at its command, could undertake a coordinating action for the future settlement of the alcohol question," the board said.

"There are divergencies of opinion on this subject. Accordingly the question demands examination. The different governments, the different currents of opinion could unite in this task; one may hope that this work, undertaken in the spirit of the League of Nations and on the basis of impartial scientific research, will bear fruit which will prove beneficial to humanity."

The evidence that the league may act, the board pointed to the following resolution, which was deferred from this year's assembly meeting to the meeting of 1927:

"That the assembly should decide to include in the program of the work of the League of Nations the question of alcoholism and should appoint a committee to take measures to this effect."

Methodists To Meet In Annual Conference With Epworth Church

Epworth, Ga., October 17.—(Special.)—Bishop W. O. Shepard, of Portland, Ore., will preside at the annual session of the Georgia conference of the Methodist Episcopal church here October 27-31.

The business of the conference will consist chiefly of the reports of the district superintendents, and discussions regarding the work of the church at home and abroad. Special emphasis will be made on the program of the world service commission, which includes foreign missions, home missions, education, temperance, church extension, and the work of the church in the community.

The principal speakers will be Bishop Shepard, Dr. B. M. Powell, board of pensions and relief, Chicago; Dr. Blaine E. Kirkpatrick, secretary of the department of Epworth leagues, Chicago; Dr. J. M. McLean, Athens, Tenn., editor of the Southern Christian Advocate; Dr. W. B. Hollingshead, Chicago, world service commission; President J. L. Robb, Tennessee Wesleyan; and Dr. Clarence True Wilson, corresponding secretary, board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, Washington, D. C.

TOWNS COUNTY FAIR HELD AT HIAWASSEE

Hiawassee, Ga., October 17.—(Special.)—The annual Towns county fair was held in the courthouse in Hiawassee yesterday. The public schools of the county had a program of spelling, declamations, recitations and health posters.

The 4-H club girls, under the management of the County Home demonstration agent, Mrs. Maggie C. Berrong, had a beautiful display of canned products, also an attractive display of sewing and fancy work.

The following club girls were awarded scholarships to the short course in Athens for the year 1927: Misses Leta Berrong, Jeanette Burrill, Alice Burch and Margie Holden; Scholarship to Young Harris college, Miss Judith Press; scholarship to Hiawassee academy, Miss Myrtle Swanson.

In the contest in the public schools of the county as the best speller, Susie Burch and Guy Johnson tied for first place; best declamation, Ralph Berrong; second, Don McKinney; best reading, Mary Jane Corn; second, Lorraine Loyd; best school poster, Hightower school; best map of Towns county, Charles Wayne Colwell; and Alice Burch tied; best map of Georgia, Elaine Rogers.

Thomaston, Ga., October 17.—(Special.)—State Supervisor Paul Elison visited the state-aid schools in Upson county last Friday. These schools are at Thomaston, Yatesville and Crest.

Thomaston gets an appropriation for the high school work which is given free to all country children in the department. Yatesville and Crest receive aid as consolidated schools.

The Yatesville school takes in seven small schools and uses three trucks for the transportation of the pupils.

AMERICAN REEF SLAIN IN MEXICO

Mexico City, October 17.—J. E. Springs, an American whose address in the United States is unknown, was found dead Saturday night near Culiacan, state of Sinaloa. He is believed to have been the victim of robbers.

The charge d'affaires of the American embassy called at the foreign office Sunday and asked for the apprehension and punishment of Springs.

The dead man was superintendent of the Milanes Fruit company. The United States consul at Mazatlan wired the embassy Sunday regarding the matter and his report is expected to arrive shortly by mail.

SHORTER COLLEGE TO HEAR WALPOLE, ENGLISH NOVELIST

Rome, Ga., October 17.—(Special.)—Hugh Walpole, one of the leading English novelists, will come to Rome Wednesday, October 20, to deliver a lecture at Shorter college. It was announced today by Paul Cousins, head of the department of English literature.

"Victorian and Modern Novels Contrasted" will be the subject of his lecture.

A brilliant public speaker as well as author, Mr. Walpole is eminently fitted to speak on this subject. His lecture will include a discussion of the English novelists and a new insight will be gained into the lives and works of such men as Wells, Kipling and Hardy, from one who knows them among his friends and coworkers.

Mr. Walpole descended from a family that has been prominent in English literature and history for centuries. His grandfather, Thomas Walpole, was a member of the House of Commons, and his father, George Walpole, was a member of the House of Commons.

HUNDREDS VIEW HIGH MUSEUM

Central galleries is greater than either of those they showed here before. Housed in the lovely settings of the new museum, it is immeasurably superior in the pleasure it gives to viewers. There are approximately 200 pieces of pictures and sculpture, and each provides sufficient study and pleasure for all who can see and feel the message of the artist, to thrill for hours. There is a surfeit of aesthetic delight, in strolling around the lovely grounds, where marvelous bronzes and statues stand among the trees and on the terraces, and in walking from picture to picture in the light and spacious rooms.

Perhaps the first thing to catch the eye upon entering the house is the newly completed portrait of Bobby Jones, by Wayman Adams, N. A. This is the property of the Atlanta Athletic club, and will be hung in its new museum home after the present exhibition.

On the lawn, greeting the arriving visitors, are many striking bronzes, the companion figures of Rising Sun and Descending Night, by Bobb A. Weinman, N. A., perhaps attracting most attention. Just back of them, however, is the delicious Hymeneus, by Harriet Frishmuth, N. A. This should never be overlooked.

Miss Frishmuth, ranking in the first rank of American women sculptors, is widely represented in the collection and also in Atlanta for the exhibition. Nine or 10 examples of her work, all exquisite in idea and perfect in execution, are shown.

The Italian paintings by George Wharton Edwards attracted much attention Sunday afternoon. Mr. Edwards is also one of the visiting artists. Sidney Dickinson, N. A., another visitor, has three virile portraits in the collection.

There are four beautiful examples from the brush of Karl Anderson, N. A. Wayman Adams has two areas, in addition to the Bobby Jones portrait. There are half a dozen paintings by George Elmer Brown; George DeForest Brush is represented by his "Florentine Boy."

There are two Carlsons, two by Jean MacLane, three Paul Kings, four Hobart Nichols, four Bolshoens, three or Roscoe's splendid hunting dog pictures, four Hawthornes, and scores of other great paintings.

Mrs. High and the visiting artists stood in line receiving the guests yesterday afternoon. Included in the line were Mrs. Harriet Frishmuth, A. P. Steiner, Sidney Dickinson, Karl Anderson, George Wharton Edwards, Gardner Symons, and others. Also in line were officials of the local art association, headed by J. Carroll Payne, president and J. J. Haverly, vice president.

The Grand Central exhibition will be here for two weeks. During that time a small charge will be made for admission, 35 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. Every Atlantian should see the collection, whether or not they think, today, that they have an appreciation for art.

Reception committees. For all normal men and women have an appreciation for truth and beauty and art, after all, is nothing but the expression of truth in beauty and beauty in truth.

Reception committees of the art association and members of the visiting group of artists will be present each day to show visitors to the rooms. The museum will open daily at 10 o'clock, closing each night at 10 p. m.

The reception committee in charge for morning and afternoon today is as follows:

Miss Mae Haverly, chairman; Mrs. Clarence Haverly, Mrs. Frank Adair, Mrs. P. C. Black, Mrs. Hughes Spaulding, Mrs. Henry Tompkins, Mrs. Marion Smith, Mrs. Russell Bellman, Mrs. Phinizy Calhoun, Mrs. Hunter Perry, Mrs. Robert Woodruff, Mrs. Alex. Smith, Jr., Mrs. Charles Hopkins, Jr., Miss Louise Nelson and Mrs. Beverly DuRose.

The reception committee for Monday night consists of:

Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer L. Moore, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Black, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Goodrum, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Petree, Mr. and Mrs. Toulman Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Arkwright, W. E. Chapin, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Orme, Mr. and Mrs. William Clark Spivey, Joseph W. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Billups, Sanders Jones.

Chicago Police Arrest Partner Of Slain Gunman

Chicago, October 17.—(P)—Vincent "Schemer" Drucel, partner of Earl "Hymie" Weiss, gang leader slain a week ago when ambushed by rival gangsters armed with a machine gun, was arrested here today at a professional football game.

With Drucel, detectives apprehended Julian "Potatoes" Kaufman, son of a wealthy commission merchant, and Harry Sore, both of whom are members of the Drucel-Weiss gang faction, according to the police.

The three men were seized in a general campaign against gangsters following the slaying of Weiss and a companion and the wounding of three other persons. They were taken to the detective bureau and held without charge.

All three denied knowledge as to how Weiss came to his death and said they did not know who killed him. Drucel also denied that he was connected with any organization handling illicit whisky while his companions said they were respectable business men who just happened to be in Drucel's company.

Fireproof Fund For Lee Chapel Urged by Ochs

Bristol, Va., October 17.—(P)—Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of The New York Times, who arrived in Bristol today by automobile, accompanied by former Ambassador Henry Morgenthau, was so amazed at the fire hazard at the Lee Memorial chapel at Washington and Lee university, Lexington, which he visited Saturday, that he stated he would like to contribute to a fund to fire-proof the famous shrine.

"I found conditions such that it would be possible for the torch of a vandal to 'destroy' this hallowed sanctuary," said Mr. Ochs. "I would like to see some of the Confederate organizations raise a fund to make this chapel fireproof and I would be glad to contribute to that fund. As much as we southern people love and revere the memory of Lee, it is a shame that the building that houses the tomb and the noble recumbent statue is subject to destruction by fire."

Mr. Ochs said that he was "tremendously impressed" when he stood before the tomb of the Confederate chieftain.

Mr. Ochs and Mr. Morgenthau were guests of the Johnson City (Tennessee) Chamber of Commerce for luncheon today and motored to Asheville to spend the night, from whence to continue their motor tour of the south.

Had the kickoff gone to the corner of the field, the game would have had an entirely different complexion. Grange might have gotten away, in fact he probably would have later on, but he was held by a punter who deflected a Michigan team has suffered in modern football, and the greatest performance that Grange delivered during his brilliant career.

Strategy in Kickoff. There is strategy in the kickoff. More of it than the spectator imagines. The strategy is planned before the kickoff. Coaches and the captain of a team go over the entire field. They test the footing, study the position of the sun, heat and moisture, take note of the wind, and they look for bad spots in the field. Nearly every gridiron has two or three uneven spots. Plans are made to take advantage of the conditions as they present themselves on this inspection. The kick-off frequently determines the entire game. It may bring victory and it may bring defeat.

It is advisable to kick-off to your opponents. When teams take the field all the players are nervous. It is best to let the other team handle the ball while those conditions exist. Let your opponents make the mistakes at this period.

The kick-off should always be to the corner of the field where the weakest of the defense men is stationed. The ball should never be kicked down the imaginary center line of field or to a strong back. If you can prevent your opponents from returning the ball beyond their own 15-yard line you have an advantage to start with. They will be compelled to kick to you on first down and this where you can launch a drive against their goal line from a desirable position.

Now, suppose that your opponents kick-off to you. To prepare for this have your best back carriers stationed in front of the goal line with your two strongest backs in the corners. If your team is well drilled in blocking you have an excellent chance of running the ball back and should you be successful in carrying it back far enough to permit using a running play on first down, or before punting, give the ball to your surest back and let him do the thing that he can do best.

If he is best on end runs let him try to sweep the ends and if his best play is against the line let him plunge, but run his play from a punt formation since your opponents will be looking for a punt on first down. The punt formation carries the greatest threat, is strong and about the safest you can use. Should the first play succeed, try another, running from the same formation but using another play.

If you get away well you have an advantage that your opponents will find difficult to overcome. You will have established in your team a degree of confidence and at the same time you will have weakened the confidence of your opponents. What follows will be simplified to a certain extent as a result.

"When in Doubt, Punt." Sometimes a kick is better than an attempt to run with the ball. The kicking game has its value. Often it can be instrumental in winning for you.

If two teams are evenly matched as far as ten men are concerned but if one has a much better kicker than

MODERN FOOTBALL

BY BENNY FRIEDMAN
(Captain and Quarterback Coaches' 1925 All-American)

(NOTE)—When the three great coaches, Knute Rockne, Glenn Warner and "Red" Jones, selected a 1925 all-American team, they were unanimous on one player, Benny Friedman, of Michigan, led the all-star selection both in quarters and in halves. While the punt will get you out of many tight spots, it can likewise get you into some desirable soft spots. Your choice in kicking depends upon several things. I may mention wind (that above all), ground conditions and temperature.

Other factors are: Strength of the opposing defense. Position in the field. Number of downs and yardage to be gained.

The score. Remaining time of play. Ability of your kicker. Ability of opposing kicker.

Development of Kicker Vital. The importance of having a good kicker is demonstrated by the advice given to prospective coaches at the summer schools:

"Next to the development of a quarterback, the development of a kicker is the most essential thing in building a football team."

If you have a good kicker he can always be used as a threat and any style of play is possible from punt formation.

To establish this threat kick on first and second down a few times. This done early in the game you can count on drawing out the defense every time the kicker goes back. If they refuse to go back, go through with the kick.

Major teams do not alone have one good kicker but they try to develop three and four. The more they have the better they are equipped for strategy, particularly if a kicker is also a good runner or if, besides these two qualities, he is able to forward pass.

If you are fortunate enough to have a strong wind at your back then the kicker is bound to give you a wide advantage. You will gain from 10 to 15 yards on each exchange of punts and that in football is a splendid break.

Your kicker will get you out of dangerous situations, if he is capable, while a poor kicker will get you into them. Many games have been won on short kicks by the opposing team; many have been saved by long punts.

The best punters are those who can get both distance and direction and who can vary their kicks. By varying, I mean punters who will drive the ball high enough to deliver both spiral and end over end kicks. Your style of kick depends, of course, upon your position on the field and the defensive formation, also the ability of the men in the secondary defense.

If the safety man is good on returning punts your kicker should never outkick his ends. He should kick high enough so that his ends or end and tackle, can reach the punt receiver before he gets the ball and prevent him from returning the kick driven low and with power, to either side, will be advantageous. If he tries to handle the ball he is more likely than not to fumble it; if he lets it roll, as many do, then you get added yard

Alabama Holds One-Game Lead In Conference Race

Tennessee Eleven In Second Place; 4 Teams Are Tied

Georgia Tech in Seventh Place Following Defeat by Tide Saturday—Georgia Bulldogs Are Third in Conference Standing With Three Other Teams.

WITH the victory over the Georgia Tech Golden Tornado, the University of Alabama is now resting on top of the standing in the southern conference with three games won and none lost and leading the rest of the pack by one full game.

The University of Tennessee is second with two victories and no defeats to their credit, while the University of Georgia and the University of Mississippi are next in that order with only one conference victory. V. P. L. and Washington and Lee are also among the six leading teams.

Georgia Tech ranks seventh, with two conference games won and one lost to their record. The Crimson Tide defeat handed the Tornado Saturday the record of the Golden Tornado, which was strongly figured in the running up until the Alabama game.

Many upsets featured the games in the southern conference Saturday, while there were many outside of the conference in which conference teams figured.

Georgia's Defeat Upset.
In games with non-conference teams the greatest surprise of the day was the 14 to 7 defeat of the University of Georgia at the hands of Furman. Schneider's 37-yard dash for one of the Furman touchdowns was the feature of the game. Mississippi A. and M. had little trouble in disposing of the Millsaps College Majors, 34 to 0. The same score as in 1925, but Tennessee was pushed to score a 6 to 0 victory over Maryville. North Carolina university scored one touchdown to beat Duke, 6 to 0, and Davidson's three points were enough to defeat North Carolina State, 3-0.

The Mercer University Bears were hungry for "Gator meat" and handled the University of Florida a 6 to 3 victory.

Sewanee, South Carolina and Clemson enjoyed off-days.

Hendrix, Vanderbilt Commodore football, ran wild in the third quarter at Dallas, Texas, to score a one-touchdown victory over the University of Texas Longhorns, carrying the ball from his own 47-yard line to the goal line in eight consecutive plays, among them being a 32-yard dash.

The University of Mississippi entertained hundreds of former students at the annual Ole Miss homecoming celebration at Oxford by defeating Loyola university of Chicago, 13 to 7, after the northern visitors had taken the lead during the early stages of the game.

Tulane's Green Wave howled before the Purple of New York university 21 to 0, in the third conference inter-sectional tilt, the game being played in New York. Chick Mehan's plunging line and dazzling aerial attack completely bewildered the Greenies who waited until late in the game to unleash their air attack.

Mike Donahue, who used to coach at Auburn, brought his Louisiana State University Tigers to a victory over the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

TIGERS DEFEAT HORSE GUARDS BY 12-0 COUNT

Led by Barkland and Towne in one of the closest contested football games played at the Prison, the Commodore Tigers defeated the Governor's Horse Guard, 12 to 0, at the Prison Sunday afternoon before a large crowd.

After battling through the first two quarters with honors even, the Tigers let loose an attack that netted them a touchdown in the third and fourth period. With the ball resting on the opposing team's 10-yard line, following a terrific driving attack, Barkland hit the center of the opposing line and rushed the ball over the goal line for the first score.

Starting in the final quarter with the Tigers leading 6 and 0, the Horse Guardsmen staged a strong defense, but failed to stop the onslaught of the Tigers, and a second touchdown resulted. After a rushing attack that brought the ball to the visiting team's five-yard line, Towne was given the ball to take across for the second and last score of the game. The try for the extra point failed both times.

The whole Tiger team played a good brand of football throughout the game, never letting up for anything. Besides Towne and Barkland, Ward, Walker and Robertson starred for the Tigers. Murray and Madden were about the only outstanding players on the Horse Guard team.

DAVIS COURT IN MAIN BOUT OF NEXT SHOW

After the great success with his initial show of the season here last Wednesday John Contos, local wrestling promoter, announced late Sunday that he would put Dick Daviscourt, the man who sent Tony Divitchi to the hospital in his match here, on the next card as the main event of the evening with some worthy opponent.

Following many long-distance telephone calls to various parts of the country in search of a good bone-crusher, John stated that he had several real good men in mind, but the opponent of the dangerous Daviscourt, Daviscourt is known in Atlanta for his great wrestling ability displayed here last year, and he came back this fall better than ever, putting Tony Divitchi out of the running here.

Contos expects to ring Jimmy London, Atlanta's favorite; Jim Brown, or Pete Souza here for a match with Daviscourt.

Contos says Daviscourt is sure to give the services of London against Daviscourt, local mat fans would see a battle of their lives, for these two men are evenly matched in brain and brawn and are not on very good terms with each other.

The show is slated for October 27 at the auditorium, and Contos announced that he would have a boxing card program arranged for the evening. Besides the Daviscourt match, he will have two or three other bouts that would pass as main events on any card.

W. L. TO GIVE JACKET SQUAD GREAT BATTLE

Lexington, Va., October 17.—(Special.)—Chief among the football games of the south for next Saturday looms the battle between Washington and Lee and Georgia Tech in Atlanta. This conflict will be colored with inter-sectional interest, and preparations are being made by the Atlanta authorities to handle one of the largest crowds of their heavy high school football fans.

The fact that the two eleven have not met on the gridiron in very recent years, coupled with the known strength of each team makes this battle one of the foremost upon the schedules of both institutions, and it is considered by backers of the Generals as the high point of the first half of their schedule. For several years past both schools have had their teams finishing high in the Southern conference ratings.

October 23 is expected to see both the Generals and the Jackets at the height of their power for the season. Each team has played four games thus far, and the conclusion of the paper strength seems to be about evenly matched for the encounter.

Oglethorpe's victory over Tech in the opening game is not taken as much of a sign of the Atlanta's true merit in local quarters, and, following their impressive win over V. M. I., their defeat of the Tulane Greenies is considered proof of the fact that Tech boasts one of their customarily hard driving teams.

The Blue and White showing against Princeton following their win over Lynchburg and a loss to West Virginia was seized upon by all eastern sports writers as the headline of the southern invasion of the east on October 9, and the seven-all tie was diagnosed as putting the Generals in a good position to cause trouble to their six southern conference opponents.

MICHIGAN 11 LOOMS BIG TEN TITLE WINNER

Chicago, October 17.—(P)—The race for the football championship of the "Big Ten" is in full swing tonight with Michigan looming up stronger than ever as the outstanding challenger to capture the title. At least that is the conclusion of the observers as the result of the opening games yesterday which were ushered in with only one upset.

Coach Jimmie Phelan's plucky little Purdue team was the outfit to putter advance predictions. The Boilermakers not only held Wisconsin to a scoreless tie, but, led by the shifty "Cotton" Wilcox, they showed Badgers fighting furiously in the second half to avert defeat.

Michigan, running true to form, ran rough-shod over Minnesota, "killing" a 20-0 victory. The Wolverines were paced to victory by their brilliant captain, Benny Friedman.

The Wolverines did not put to its first severe test, did not appear to be as good as a year ago, but is far from weak. The backfield appeared to be better.

"Frosty" Peters, the Billings, Mont., youth, seems destined to take up the work at Illinois where "Red" Grange left off a year ago. Peters, playing his first championship contest, gave the 50,000 Orange and Blue followers a thrill by his spectacular running and kicking. It was Frosty's machine staged a heroic defense for three periods, but crumpled before the plunging of Tiny Lewis and Moon Baker in the fourth.

Two conference teams have yet to face their baptism in the championship race. Both traveled east yesterday. Ohio State ran up a 22-0 triumph over Columbia, while Chicago invaded Philadelphia and was lucky to escape with its snits after coming in contact with the strong Pennsylvania eleven.

The schedule next Saturday will taper down the championship field with Michigan playing Illinois and Ohio meeting Iowa. The Wolverines and Buckeyes rule favorites. In the other engagements Chicago will seek its first "Big Ten" victory against Purdue, Northwestern will be host to Notre Dame, Wisconsin will pile up with Indiana and Minnesota will tackle Wabash.

HAWK-EYE-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS.

Jackets Were Dull Boys.

Psychology, that most important and most misunderstood science which is so big a factor in all events where human action is concerned, played an important part in the Alabama-Tech fiasco at Grant field Saturday.

Alabama was favored by psychology. This does not mean that Tech could have beaten Alabama if she had that great mental force on her side—Tech could not have won that game with all the psychology in the world because Tech does not know the football that Alabama does. But TECH WAS STALE.

There were thousands who witnessed the game Saturday who were of the opinion that Tech was not trying as hard as it might have to win the game. Many thought there was a hopeless air about the Tornado in the way they missed tackles by inches and in the seemingly listless way that many plays were run.

But that was not the case. Tech was stale. You perhaps have seen a boxer in the ring who has had too much fighting in a short space of time. He will lack the accurate timing to make his blows effective. His feet will be slow and he will duck or sidestep a bit too late and will hear his swan song right then. If he meets a mediocre opponent he may be able to win despite his staleness by virtue of sheer fighting spirit but if he meets a better man he will look like the veriest of amateurs.

Such was the condition of the Jackets Saturday afternoon. They have been forced to reach their peak of form for every game this season since the Oglethorpe defeat and three weeks in a row was just a bit too much. To everyone who has watched the Tornado in action this year it was apparent that they lacked that timing Saturday which makes football plays perfect. They fought nobly to throw off the lethargy of staleness but it was hopeless in the face of such a team as Alabama.

The coaches know this and as a result every member of the squad was released from training after the game Saturday night and all training rules are suspended until Tuesday afternoon. It had to come. And Coach Alex and his staff are very wise to declare a vacation just at this time.

One might say that Alabama was not stale. Alabama was not stale for the reason that Alabama has not had to taper up to every game this season as Tech has. Alabama did not suffer a defeat in the first game of the season like that which dealt such a blow to the morale of the Tornado. The Tide has not had easy games to play but they have not had to entertain any doubt as to victory in any game up to the Tech game and they were not kept on raw edge for several weeks.

After the break in training Tech will have an improved team. The players may not admit the fact but they were frightfully stale Saturday and the three-day rest will do them good.

There was no Sunday "skull" practice and there will be no drill today. Tuesday, when the Jackets swear at Grant field again there will be an undefinable but concrete change in the spirit of the men. We also firmly believe that Tech will show the difference in the Washington and Lee game.

Concerning the Injured.

There has been much criticism of the roughness in the "Bama-Tech game and there was too much unethical playing on the field, of that there is no question. Perhaps the referee might be blamed for some of it and perhaps not, but that is a thing of the past and what counts most at this time is the result on the members of the Jacket squad.

Bob Parham, whose nose was smashed out of all semblance of form in the second quarter Saturday, will probably be out of play for some time. His nose was so badly broken that he had to be given gas while the bone was set. Carter Barron, whose own nasal appendage has been misplaced more than once, said of Parham, "That boy has the worst broken nose I ever saw."

Johnny Marshall needed several stitches in the cut over his eye which finally forced him from the game after he had played more than one quarter with the wounded head under a bandage.

Firpo Martin, regular varsity guard, is also hurt, but the extent of his injury is not yet known.

Tech did not come from the battle unscathed and it may be some few days before the marks of the Tide will leave Grant field.

Attention, Fans!

John Contos, double of Adolphe Menjou and the only man in the world who ever turned down a movie contract and admitted it, declares that he is out to stop the hefty Mr. Daviscourt or die in the attempt. Mr. Contos will not try to do the job himself, of course, if he did he might die in the attempt, "SURE ENOUGH."

The mat's "meanest man" crossed up John's wires in the last bout by polishing off the Italian Divitchi (we have the nationality correct this time—competitors please note) when Mr. Contos was hoping that Divitchi could win and be in line for a bigger bout, so the John D. Rockefeller of the wrestling game is out to "get" Richard Daviscourt.

With this in view John announces that he is burning up the wires trying to get an opponent for Mr. Daviscourt who will not be sent to the hospital after Richard gets through with his treatment. ONE THING IS CERTAIN. There is at least one good match in store for October 27.

When "Cash and Carry" Pyle told Vincent Richards away from the fold of amateurism, he took away a thorn in the side of the French Davis cup team. As long as Richards and R. Norris Williams played together as a double team, France entered the cup matches with a handicap of one.

Now with Richards gone, Borotra declares, France has her chance. There is little doubt that the same quartet of stars—Rene LaCoste, Henri Cochet, Jacques Brugnon and Borotra—will play for France next year. In the recent American national championships they showed their merits by making the final all-French affair.

Next: Forward passes. "Pyle tried to get us all," Borotra told his friends upon returning to Paris. "But we weren't for sale. We want to get the Davis cup for France and money doesn't interest us until that is accomplished."

Rene LaCoste, whose father is a multi-millionaire manufacturer of De Luze automobiles, had a curt comment to make regarding Pyle and his offers.

"I could not stand that man talking to me; I do not like the smell of the cigars he smokes," LaCoste said. "His game was never interesting, for tennis is a sport and not a profession."

The least wealthy member of the French team, Henri Cochet, son of the ground keeper of the Lyons Tennis club and a newly wedded youth, as studied long the offer made him, but he too finally preferred France and autonomy to the professional swing around America.

CITADEL TEAM IS BECOMING STRONG SQUAD

Charleston, S. C., October 17.—(Special.)—Every week seems to prove more and more that the Citadel will have the strongest eleven in South Carolina for its opponent on Homecoming day, November 20, at Charleston. Events may take place that may change this, but just now Furman is rated as the strongest machine in South Carolina, and it is Furman that will furnish the opposition for the cadets when the alumni and other former students and parents of cadets at the institution will gather in Charleston. They will see the best, and while Furman is rated to be on edge to give their very best, and that means a battle, and that's all the visitors and others will be able to ask for.

There will be various kinds of festivities, meetings of classes, dinner on the famous historical Indian hill, dances, a review of the alumni and one of the cadet corps. The football game will be the main attraction, of course.

Parents of all cadets will be invited, especially. They will be given an opportunity to see just what is being done at the Citadel and how it is being done. The largest crowd of its kind ever to gather here is expected for the occasion, and plans and preparations are being made accordingly.

Favored to whip Yale, and for the first time in their eight meetings, because of master generalship, speed, power and a forward passing game that had swept all before it, the Red-men of the north found each of their weapons turned against them with telling effect. In achieving the 14-7 victory, the Elis not only came from behind, but turned the tide with a volley of passes that swept Dartmouth into confusion. Vested in Yale yesterday was all the versatility of the vaunted Green attack. And a new hero, comparatively unknown, "Doc" McGonigle, stepped into the place left by injured veterans, and in the fourth quarter clinched the overthrow of Green aerial supremacy, first with the interception of a pass and later with the toss that brought victory.

Tigers Met Navy.
The Princeton Tigers, faltering for the past two weeks but still edging out a victory and a tie, met a powerful Navy crew with a deceptive running attack that might alone could not conquer. The gaps that yawned in the Tiger forward wall under the drive of a low charging middle line let plunging backs through to the 27-13 win.

Vying in color with the Yale-Dartmouth spectacle, was the vicious onslaught of a great Pennsylvania cleaver that crushed a meekness from the west. Chicago, in the outstanding inter-sectional warfare of the day. Only the first down was the gain of the bewildered westerners, who faced a barrage of speedy backs and tricky double passes with a line that was outdriven, a backfield outgeneraled and an eleven consistently outplayed in the 20-0 rout.

Tulane Has Same Fate.
What a similar fate met the invasion of two southern eleven—the Green Wave of Tulane, battered and broken against the New York university bulwark, 21 to 0, and the Virginians from William and Mary, smothered, 27 to 7, under the first winning Harvard surge of the season, Ohio State warriors, led by another new stellite, Freddie Grim, were overpowering Columbia with all-round brilliance at the Polo Grounds here. The Blue and White could stop Eb, and occasionally Marty Karow, but rarely the unheralded Grim, who ran, passed and kicked with equal abandon in the crushing 32 to 7 conquest.

Equally overwhelming was the least of Penn State by Notre Dame, 28 to 0, in the lone eastern invasion of the west. The Nittany Lions never were dangerous, as Rockne's men need at will through the Penn State line, turned the ends, and threw a bewildering assortment of forward passes.

Army Rights to Win.
The fighting heart of a potentially great Army team carried the Cadets to a 27 to 21 win over Syracuse after an intercepted pass and a fumble had given the Orange a 14 point start in the first half. Pittsburgh rose from the ruck of indifferent football to plow Colgate under, 19 to 16, but Cornell came to the sectional rescue by trouncing Michigan State, 24 to 14.

The crafty strength of the West Virginia mountaineers made itself felt in the final minutes of the Georgetown game when a passing foray, suddenly unleashed, brought the touchdown needed to nose them to 13 to 10.

The fast Holy Cross backs ran through Rutgers for 24 points while the defense held tight. Bates startled Brown by scoring twice, but after the shock had worn away the Brunswickians settled to the task of grinding out the 27 to 14 edge.

Taxing by airplane to football games may become general for the Quincio Marines defeated Lehigh 13 to 0 after an air journey. Lafayette smothered Dickinson 43 to 13 and Washington and Jefferson managed to maintain a safe margin over Carnegie Tech, 27 to 6. Allegheny was a touchdown and a goal better than Bethany, 14 to 7. Geneva continued to sweep aside all opposition with Canisius the latest to feel the might of the new Golden Tornado, 28 to 9.

WESTERN FULLBACKS LEAD IN SCORING.
Chicago, October 17.—(P)—Fullbacks of the western conference still lead in the scoring records, with Bo Molenda, of Michigan, holding a scant lead over Captain Marty Karow, of Ohio. Frosty Peters, of Illinois, has made good his prep reputation as a field goal kicker and has three to his credit. He still is a bit behind the old master, Bennie Friedman of Michigan, in the total of points after touchdown.

What Is the Sum Total of the Figures Forming the Elephant?

Simply Add Them Up to Get the Solution

There are no marks, lines or characters in the elephant except figures. These figures range from 2 to 9, each standing alone. There are no "ones" or "ciphers." There are no groups of figures such as "23" or "42." The heads of the "6's" are distinctly curved while the tails of the "9's" are straight, or practically so. There is no trick or illusion of any description in the chart.

General Rules of The Contest

1. All bonafide residents of Georgia and adjoining states, meaning Alabama, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, east and middle Tennessee, may take part in this contest, except employees of the Atlanta Constitution, members of their families, and those who have won first and second awards in similar contests conducted by The Constitution.

2. Contestants may submit as many different solutions as they desire, provided payment of one of the four amounts designated in the award list shall accompany each solution, but no contestant will be permitted to win more than one award. Once registered a solution cannot be changed.

3. The Atlanta Constitution offers these awards for individual effort. While it is proper for members of one household to work together, or several friends, it is not permissible for more than one of those working in unison to send in a solution of the puzzle. Only one award will be paid to any one person, household, or group of persons working together. When in the judgment of the contest manager, or The Atlanta Constitution, more than one member of the same family, or more than one of any number of persons, who it is believed have worked together, send in a solution of the puzzle, the right is reserved to refund the amount of money paid for subscriptions and return the solution it is believed has been submitted contrary to the rules.

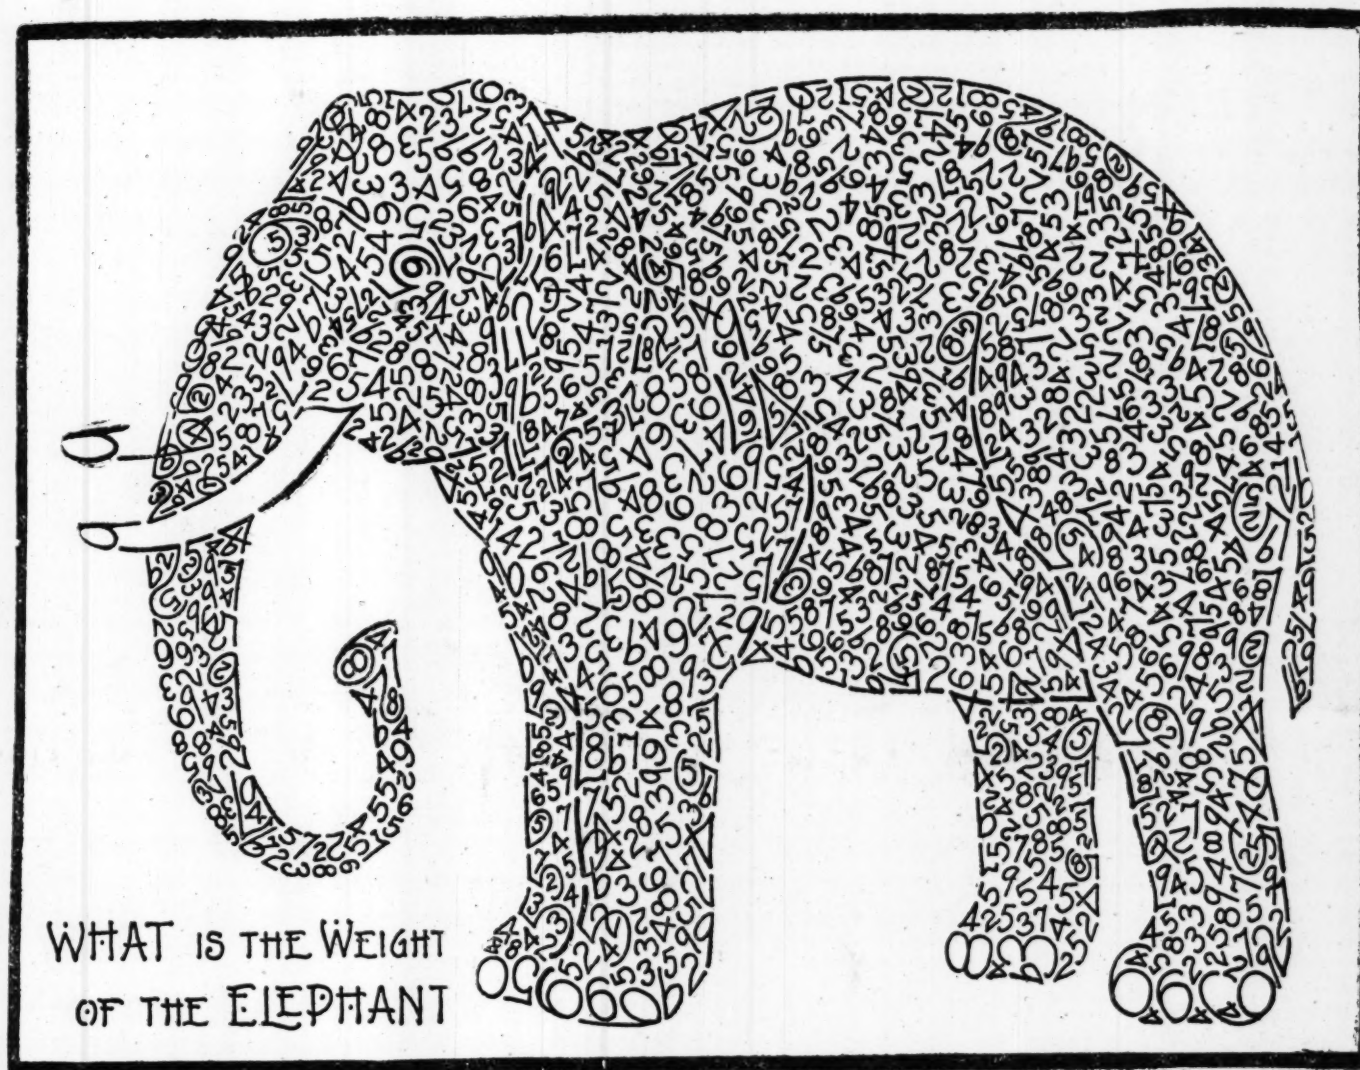

4. The Atlanta Constitution is to decide any questions which may arise and are not covered by the published rules, and those entering the contest agree to abide by such decisions and accept them as final and conclusive.

5. All solutions must be mailed or delivered to the Atlanta Constitution office on or before 9 o'clock Saturday, November 27, 1926. Solutions sent by mail bearing postmark of that date will be accepted, if rules governing same are complied with. This contest extends from Sunday, October 17, to and including Saturday, November 27, 1926. Five days will be given thereafter for those who have not fully qualified for the larger award to do so, after which no further qualifying remittances will be accepted.

6. In case of ties, as many awards will be reserved as there are people tied. Before any awards are awarded for less correct solutions another puzzle will be submitted to those tied. That is, if two or more people should tie on the best solution, the first two or more awards will be reserved for them, and they will be awarded in the order of the standing of their solutions of the second puzzle. If ties still result, as many as five tie-breaking puzzles will be used, after which should ties still result, each contestant will receive the full value of the prize tied for.

7. This contest is open to both new and old subscribers alike. The regular subscription rate of $2.50 for three months, $5.00 for six months, $9.50 for twelve months for the daily and Sunday Constitution will prevail. Daily only subscriptions not accepted in this contest. Full amount of subscription must be remitted in every instance. When sent through an agent no commission can be deducted. In column five of prize list, six months new subscriptions there referred to means someone who is not now taking the daily and Sunday Constitution, directly or indirectly, and has not within the past sixty days, and such new six months subscriptions must be confined to Georgia or adjoining states.

8. A person who is now taking the daily and Sunday Constitution and paying the carrier or agent by the week or month may send or bring directly to The Constitution the three, six or twelve months payment with the solution. Whatever is due such carrier, dealer or agent, must be paid to him, as the remittance sent us will date from the date it is received. The carrier or agent will be notified by The Constitution of such advance payment. If all arrearages are not paid the solution will not be considered valid. Renewals on mail subscriptions will be extended for the length of time paid for from the present paid date of expiration.

$2,000 First Award---Second Award $1,000
$500 Third Award --- Fourth Award $200
And 26 Other Awards---All Cash

Go to work on this puzzle today. You can win.
No one has a better chance than You.

Here Is The Great List of Awards---

Note—The value of the first nine awards depends on how much you pay on your subscription with your solution of the puzzle. The amount paid will be applied to the Daily and Sunday. Daily only subscriptions will not be accepted in this contest.

Deciding Ties---If Any

Actual Size, About 11x7 Inches

In case of ties those tied for any prize will be presented with a second puzzle, which will consist of drawing a line across the face of a chart of figures, like the accompanying chart, only larger, so that the figures thus connected when added together will total the greatest sum. If necessary this chart will be used five times, after which, should any ties remain, each contestant will receive full value of any prize tied for.

In case there are no ties on counting the Elephant no other puzzle, of course, will be presented.

Closing Date

The Great ELEPHANT PUZZLE CONTEST will close 9:00 P. M., Saturday, November 27, 1926. The earlier you send in your solution, the longer time you will have to go over your figures and send in another solution IF YOU FIND YOU CAN DO BETTER. Additional charts may be secured by calling at the Circulation Department, or sending a self-addressed stamped envelope for mailing them.

No Solution Can Be Changed After It Has Been Once Registered.

Important Facts to Remember

While the amount you pay with a solution of the puzzle does not have any effect on your winning an award, it does affect the amount you will receive should you win one of the first nine awards, as the value of these awards is determined by what the winners pay. This is explained in the award list, which you should study carefully before sending in your solution. The time a solution is received has no bearing upon its winning an award. Accuracy is what counts. Not more than one award will be awarded to any one person.

Weekly Business Review

Canvas Men Do Much To Aid Sick, Atlanta Dealer Says

The people of the southland have come to realize the all-year-around value of awnings, David T. Ricks, president of the Standard Tent & Awning company, of Edgewood avenue, said when showing a representative of the Business Review department of his big plant Saturday.

"A well-made awning," continued Mr. Ricks, "will add just as much to the comfort of a home in the fall and winter time as in the summer, for it will keep out cold winds."

"Then again in this section and farther south of Atlanta we have many days all through the winter when the occupants of many homes might wish the awnings lowered to avoid the glare of the sun and especially is this so in the sick rooms."

Speaking about the sick room Mr. Ricks stated that the canvas men were playing a very important part in helping prolong lives of the American people.

"To the man in business, what better means," Mr. Ricks said, "has he of telling the people passing his place of business who he is and what he does, than through using his own awnings."

As an illustration, if a merchant is doing business in a good business street and a billboard advertising some other man's business was placed across the front of his store the other fellow would pay a pretty high rate for so good a location, so if his own store front location is worth big money to the other man to advertise the other man's business it certainly ought to be worth equally as much to the owner who is selling some kind of a commodity on the inside, and all he has to do is to paint his name or business on a well-made and good-looking awning.

Speaking about local business, Mr. Ricks stated that business was far better than it was this time last year, and while Vice President Thomas was busy out in the residential sections taking orders for the shop forces busy on several gospel tents, some contractors' outfits and small order work.

The Standard Tent and Awning company is one of the many typical Atlanta firms which, in addition to serving the local section, do a wide-spread business in all parts of the southern states.

platform has contained a plank demanding equal rights for all Americans regardless of race, creed and color. This year for the first time, this plank is omitted. The reason is clear, Governor Smith does not wish to offend the southern states whose attitude toward our colored Americans is questioned in the local section, and therefore, who votes for Smith now is stamping him with their approval as president.

BATTLE IN NEW YORK EXTENDS SECOND WEEK. New York, October 17. —(AP)—The prohibition referendum, state water power and milk scandal in New York city continue to be the main topics of discussion at the opening of the second week of the New York gubernatorial campaign, with each candidate accusing the other of dodging the main issues.

Governor Smith, preparing to attack his republican opponent, Ogden L. Mills, on the state water power issue, declares that Congressman Mills "is retreating on the milk issue" and "is a candidate now without an issue." He hopes to bring a reply from Mr. Mills on the water power issue in a speech in Buffalo tomorrow night.

Congressman Mills, replying to the governor on the prohibition referendum, declared that the governor was "crawling into a beer keg to get away from the rattle of milk cans."

"How is it you have no lawyer to defend you?" "As soon as they found out that I hadn't stolen the money, they would touch the case,"—Pittsfield.

2 Americans To Study Sun Three Years

Scientists Begin Lonely Vigil on South African Mountain Top.

Cape Town, Union of South Africa, October 17. —(AP)—Two Americans have begun a lonely three-year vigil on a mountain peak near here with a view to studying sun spots in the interest of better forecasting weather. Supplied with an immense amount of astronomical apparatus, P. Greely and W. Hoover took up their abode on the peak a mile high, where the atmosphere is clear of dust and there is little rain to interfere with their observations.

They have a wireless set and can "listen in" on the radio concerts at Johannesburg and Cape Town.

The observations are being carried on under the direction of the Smithsonian institution in connection with similar observations in Chile and California.

WEST FORECASTS SUCCESS OF CHEST

two days before the campaign opens Friday, to continue until November 1. Mr. West asserted in calling the meeting that prospects are brighter for the success of the approaching campaign than for any of the previous three which have been waged to secure funds for the support of Atlanta's social service and charitable work.

Atlanta has been criticized in previous years for failing to live up to its obligations but in this campaign no one, here or abroad, can fairly criticize Atlanta because Atlanta is ready, willing and anxious to give until the chest is overflowing with the aid of mercy," the division leader declared.

Mr. West stated that reports had reached him directly since he accepted the chairmanship of the individual subscribers' division of the chest indicated that a marked change of feeling had occurred among the people who previously have been frankly and outspokenly antagonistic toward the chest.

"Lack of understanding of what the chest is and lack of knowledge of what it is and its 34 dependent agencies are actually doing seems to have been the only barrier between the chest and the 100 per cent cordial and generous support of all the people of Atlanta," he stated.

Reaches 30,000 Persons. "The splendid work of the speakers' bureau under leadership of E. Marvin Underwood, which already has reached nearly 30,000 people with direct word of mouth dissemination of the facts, and of the public information committee under chairmanship of Robert H. Scott, which has reached many more people with as much of the full story as could be conveyed in the space given us by the newspapers, has materially increased the number of chest supporters and potential gifts."

"Several persons who have withheld gifts from the chest for two years through misunderstanding have come to me personally to express regret and actual heartfelt repentance that they have permitted suffering to continue that might have been ameliorated had they helped as they were able to help and have vowed their intentions of making gifts this year large enough to compensate for refusal to give in preceding appeals."

"All these things show which way the wind is blowing today, and before the zero hour when we must go over the top in defense of the thousands who need our help; if we who have accepted leadership in this campaign fail to live up fully to the obligation we have willingly assumed we will not only be denying the needy the relief they deserve and checkmating our city in its desire to set itself right before a critical world, but we will be denying hundreds of people an opportunity to justify themselves before their own consciences by doing the square thing for the Community Chest."

Tour Agencies. Mr. West Sunday led his district chairman on a tour of several of the institutions and agencies which are dependent upon the Chest for support. They visited the children both in the Home of the Friendless and Atlanta Child's home, inspected the plant of the Sheltering Arms, which is overflowing with week-days with the children of working mothers, inspected the clinics of the Anti-Tuberculosis association where many cases of the white plague are arrested in their early stages, saving hundreds of people from becoming objects of charity through illness, and all witnessed the operations of the Travelers' Aid staff at the Terminal station.

No effort was made to visit any of the other 28 institutions and agencies supported by the Chest because of lack of time. District chairmen are to take as many of their team captains as can spare the time on visits to other agencies Monday and Tuesday while team captains will take as many of their workers as possible on similar trips Wednesday and Thursday, before the opening of the campaign on Friday.

Success for the campaign was also forecast by W. W. Orr in an address prior to the sermon at All Saints' Episcopal church Sunday morning. Mr. Orr said that clear thinking Atlantans realize that the needs of dependent and poverty stricken people cannot be ignored and that the Chest plan is the most economical and most effective plan for meeting the need.

Support for the chest was urged as a phase of practical Christianity from more than a score of other Atlanta pulpits where ministers have volunteered to impress the spiritual significance of charity upon their congregations.

Amusements

Howard Theater.

"Variety," the long anticipated German-made Ufa film featuring Emil Jennings and Lya De Putti, which is the feature at the Howard theater this week, had its premiere at the Howard last Friday night and scored tremendously. It is difficult to know to whom the biggest share of praise should go, so individually do players, directors and cameraman score.

"Variety" is an amazing picture. It has everything—suspense, thrills, splendid acting, fine directing and novel photographic work.

Nathaniel Finston's "Sidewalks of New York" is this week's Public review.

The Metropolitan.

Thrills of the sort that you see once in a lifetime are promised Atlanta theatergoers at the Metropolitan theater this week through First National's super-special photoplay, "Men of Steel" with Milton Sills and Doris Kenyon, in the leading roles. "Men of Steel" is being hailed throughout the United States as the real big picture of the 1936 season and Milton Sills is said to have the greatest role that has ever been given a star of the screen stage. Enrico Leide and his Metropolitan orchestra, Robert Earle, well known Chicago baritone in a song program, consisting of the latest hits are other features.

At the Forsyth.

"Stella Dallas," the greatest of modern life play, according to critics, will have its premiere in stock in Atlanta tonight at the Forsyth theater. With Jeanne Devereaux and James Cagney in the leading roles. The play is a romance of human frailty in which Stella Dallas, with Ed Munn, to the lasting shame and disgrace of her husband and young daughter. The theme is an expose of a more or less daring nature but no where does it touch the sordidness. It is a wonderful plot and its general wholesomeness is certain to be appreciated.

Goods seats are available but will no doubt be snapped up long before the performance. Persons wishing to see it from a good position in the theater should make reservations at the earliest moment.

Loew's Grand.

Jack Powell's sextette, a new comedy act with music will be the headline attraction on a strong vaudeville bill which will open Monday at Loew's Grand theater. Jack Powell is a resourceful comedian and producer and is assisted by six talented musicians, five men and one woman. A singing program of popular songs will be offered. Another outstanding feature of the new bill will be the appearance of the Biscuit City Four, one of the greatest singing organizations in vaudeville. They will produce lots of comedy in their act. Other popular acts on the bill are good. Loew feature picture is "Blarney."

Tenth Street Theater.

One of the most famous stars in the world, and one of the most famous novelists, are combined in the Marion Davies photoplay, "The Volga Boatman," which is playing today and tomorrow at the new Tenth Street theater. She is a human "best seller," and the book, after several years in type, is still a "best seller." This production is a colorful story of court intrigue and romance in modern Europe, filmed on a gorgeous stage. Antonio Moreno plays the leading male role opposite Miss Davies, and others in the cast include Roy D'Arcy, Paulette Goddard, Cagney, Hale and Charles Clary. Sidney Franklin, director of many of the Talmadge successes, directed it.

West End Theater.

Playing today and tomorrow at the West End theater is "The Volga Boatman," the famous Cecil B. DeMille masterpiece. "The Volga Boatman" is a thrilling epic of revolutionary Russia. It concerns in particular the hardships and the struggles of the boatmen of the River Volga. One of these boatmen, portrayed by William Lloyd, is the central character of the story. The story was inspired by a gorgeous piece of music, "Song of the Volga Boatmen," and this influence is manifested throughout the story.

Hot Soup Has Power To Soothe Savage Hubby, Says Houghton

"IN-LAWS" AID DIVORCE, DIVINE DECLARES

Hot soup, like music, hath power to soothe the savage breast, and delicate potato salad, like a mother-in-law, may lead to separation. Thus did the Rev. Will H. Houghton, pastor of the Baptist tabernacle, speak Sunday night in an enlightening sermon—the second of a series of "Love-Marriage-and-Home" talks—which came under the subject "How to Hold Your Husband."

Four thousand men, women and children pressed into the great tabernacle auditorium Sunday night to hear the pastor read his list of hints to husbands and wives, while more than a thousand persons were turned from the doors, even after the S. R. O. sign had been taken down, for a "No Room at All" placard.

"A mother-in-law in her own home is worth two in yours," read Mr. Houghton with his interesting list. "Do not be a nagger, the continued drops of water will wear away the rock."

"If you spend your time collecting hints, don't be surprised if hubby spends his on clubs—N. E. V. E. R. FLIRT."

The responsibility for success in the home rests upon both husband and wife, Mr. Houghton declared, explaining that while it appeared that the burden of his job bore down on the heads of wives only, he really meant to share the burden with both sides.

Hubby Means House Man. "The word husband is an Anglo-Saxon word meaning 'house man,'" said Mr. Houghton, "so it is his duty to hold the house together and his is the greatest responsibility. The Apostle Paul told men to love their wives as themselves, but most men spend the majority of the time loving themselves. If such a love included the wife, the home would be all right."

Dr. Houghton took his text from the book of Proverbs, explaining that this book was a practical one, full of advice for married couples. "Be loyal and faithful," the pastor said. "Many a home is spoiled because of the attention paid to criticism of outsiders or in-laws. What the home needs is loyalty and faithfulness regardless of what anyone else may say."

Don't nag—the contention of a wife are as a continual dripping. By this I mean to warn you against a sharp tongue, but I do not mean for either to be a silent sufferer."

Pertinent Suggestions. Mr. Houghton's last suggestion in his list of hints for wives and husbands was to "be spiritual." Favor is deceitful, he said, and beauty is vain, but a woman that feareth the Lord shall be praised. "This is the secret of the real home."

Other pertinent suggestions appearing on the interesting list prepared by Mr. Houghton, are:

"The arithmetic of marriage is—One and one is one. You are only half. Therefore do not be selfish."

"Be as careful of your appearance after marriage as before. This means when you are at home, too."

"If you are always on the go, you may wake to find love is gone."

"Thrift and spendthrift are poor companions. Learn to save without being stingy."

"Bring Christ into your home. Happiness abides where He lives."

Next Sunday Mr. Houghton will take for his subject "Giving Your Home to the Devil."

Thousands have flocked to the tabernacle to hear the minister's advice on "love, marriage and home" from the pulpit, and as it was Sunday, almost a thousand were turned away from the doors the Sunday before.

The resolution voted by the congress relative to the debt agreement was as follows:

"The congress deems that in the ratification of the Washington agreement, with reservations respecting safeguard and transfer clauses, was one of two important decisions reached by the radical party in the course of a four days' conference which ended today. The other outstanding decision was support for the Poincare cabinet on questions immediately affecting stabilization of the franc and improvement of France's economic and financial situation."

M. Caillaux, former finance minister, in an impassioned plea for ratification, carried his point against those who had come to Bordeaux prepared to vote rejection, pure and simple.

REPUBLICANS LAY CLAIM TO VICTORY

Chairman Wood, of National Congressional Committee, Says G. O. P. Control Brings Welfare.

Washington, October 17. —(AP)—While the democrats are "groping" for a national issue, the country has become thoroughly convinced that its welfare depends upon retention of republican control of the government. Chairman Wood of the republican national congressional committee, declared today in a statement.

Predicting that the next house of representatives would be "overwhelmingly republican," he conceded the possibility of the republicans losing some of the normally democratic districts won during the Coolidge sweep of 1924, but declared this loss would be more than overcome by gains in the west.

"The nation knows that the republican party has kept its pledges, has given an efficiently and economically administered government, and that there is no national issue at stake on which the democrats can present even a plausible argument," he added. "The democrats still are groping for a national issue. They will find none."

AN ANTI-CLIMAX

Goddard reflected that he need never draw on that account if he didn't want to. But perhaps he would want to some day, if time gave him a different slant on the situation. In the meantime he was genuinely grateful to the girl for making matters as easy for him as she could. She was being very tactful and considerate.

She retrieved the banknotes and put them into a drawer, which she locked with one of the keys on a small key hook she was carrying. He was beginning to realize how surprisingly efficient she was about many things.

"Shall you want to use this desk?" she asked as she closed it. "You may if you like. But there's one almost as good up in your studio."

"Thanks. I'll confine myself to that one, and leave this for you."

"Then everything's arranged. You've got the license, engaged the minister, fixed the hour?"

"It's all done. But—on an impulse he braced himself for a hard task—don't misunderstand me, Dorinda—I'm reminding you of this for your own sake—and it's still time to stop, you know. No one knows anything about our engagement except Hatch and the minister and the license clerk and bank clerks—half a dozen in all, besides the Butterflies. Are you sure you want to go on with it?"

"Aren't you?" Her voice was cold again.

"I'm willing to do anything you say. But I've been doing a lot of thinking since our talk. I'm a little scared—for you. You say I'm to be a watch dog. But how can I be even a good watch dog? I'm young and green. I haven't had any experience of life to speak of. You need a man who's older and a lot wiser than I am—some one you would listen to. Can you see yourself listening to me—ever?"

"And forgive me for being such a pig this noon."

"Yes."

Surprisingly, she smiled at him.

"I believe you really are thinking of me," she admitted.

"Of course I'm thinking of you. But I'm thinking of myself, too," he added honestly. "For both our sakes I don't want to make a failure of this business—yet what reason is there to hope that we can make a success of it?"

She looked at him for what seemed a long time. He wondered what was passing in her mind.

"How do you feel about me now?" she asked at last. "I mean compared with the way you felt at first."

"I've decided that you're a lot more of a girl than I thought you were."

"Good. And I've decided that there's even more in you than I thought. I'm getting fonder of having you around. I like you the way I like frackles."

"Thanks," he said ironically.

"And it's perfectly clear that you haven't an atom of sentiment about me."

"Not an atom, except the sentiment of friendship," he agreed, so earnestly that she laughed out. He liked her laugh and grinned in sympathy.

"Then I think we're making a good bargain, and I'm strong for it."

"All right, Dorinda, so am I."

After this, to them both, the marriage ceremony the following Saturday morning seemed something of an anti-climax. Forgone then the weather was abominable. The temperature had risen and then abruptly dropped, the roads were covered with slush, and during the ceremony in the close little parlor of the Chester parsonage a cold and heavy rain hissed at them through the windows. The sole witness was the minister's wife, not at all the plump and cushiony person called for by the tradition of such occasions but a meager, acid woman, who made no secret of her dark conviction that these two were laying up trouble for themselves.

For motoring the conditions could hardly be worse, and after the ceremony and a few well-meant but rather confused words from the clergyman, the young couple climbed into the curtained roadster and looked at each other uncertainly through the rain.

"Well, how about it?" Goddard suggested as he took the wheel. It had been agreed that he should drive that day. "We'll have to travel mighty slowly and we'll skid all over the road, but if you like we can get to Carlisle before six tonight, in plenty of time for dinner and the theater. Or would you rather go to the hotel at Britain? They say it's good, and it's only forty miles away."

"Heavens, no. What would we do when we got there? They haven't even a moving picture house in the town. Go on to Carlisle, where people are alive!"

As the little roadster slithered through the slush, Mrs. David Goddard leaned back against the seat with a sigh of exasperation.

"I'm beginning to think we've made an awful mistake," she suddenly announced.

"Of course you are, a day like this," her companion agreed.

"Don't you feel the same way?" she persisted.

"No, I don't. And if I did," he added rather coldly, "I wouldn't admit it."

Then compunction seized him. He reminded himself that this girl, however unjust and unreasonable she was in her present mood, had shown an amazing confidence in him. He turned and smiled at her.

"We're in this now," he said gently, "and I've made up my mind it's going to be a big success. All it calls for is common sense, and we've both got that. So brace up. It's going to be all right."

She liked the words and the smile. She liked the expression in his eyes and the clear-cut lines of his face, and his broad shoulders, and the general good looks of him. She was ashamed of her outburst, and yet, for some reason, she could not meet him half way.

"O, I suppose it will be all right," she almost snapped. "But the prospect of the next two days is simply awful. I wish to heaven we had brought Freckles along," she ended peevishly. "He'd have cheered us up."

After that the bridegroom gave his attention to his driving, and the roadster struggled on to Carlisle in a silence broken only by the purr of the engine and the rising voice of the storm.

At Carlisle that evening the bridegroom earnestly endeavored to make his bride take a less gloomy view of the day's experiences. He ordered a pleasant suite of rooms, with an open fire in their common sitting room, and he raced through the rain to a nearby florist's that the effect of the new environment might be further brightened by flowers. He and Dorinda ate their dinner in the big dining room of the hotel, to the noisy accompaniment of a jazz band whose music was at least well-intentioned, and later he secured two good seats for what proved to be a fairly amusing comedy. Dorinda also appeared to enjoy the Welsh rarebit served in the hotel grill room after the play. Indeed, when, following the little supper, he was leaving her at the door of their sitting room to go to the quarters a few feet down the hall she had regained a philosophy that was a fair substitute for cheerfulness.

"We'll have breakfast at nine," she suggested, "and it might be better if we have it up here in our sitting room instead of in that morgue downstairs."

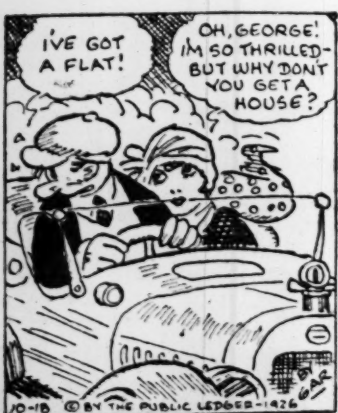

David acquiesced, wondering how, in her limited experience, she had discovered the peculiarly depressing quality of the average hotel dining room in the early morning hours.

"And forgive me for being such a pig this noon," she apologized. "I was horrid."

"It isn't to be wondered at. You were having a beastly time of it. Good night."

Zielinski, who was charged with murders and hundreds of robberies, came out into the open when his sister's wedding day was announced, and stated publicly that he would attend the ceremony in Warsaw. Police immediately made arrangements to surround the house where the wedding was held. Zielinski, who was with his company of gangsters,

Bernard Czold, successful director of the Little Theater Guild of Birmingham, will read Eugene O'Neill's new play, "The Great God Brown," at an opening meeting of the Atlanta drama league on Tuesday afternoon, October 19, at the Atlanta Woman's club. Mrs. A. Ten Eyck Brown, president of the organization, recommends this reading as especially interesting as it is unusual in character and has proved great success in its production in New York.

Dr. Thomas H. English, assistant professor of English at Emory university, will be presented at the drama league during the early part of the drama season. He will discuss the different phases of contemporary drama, with main currents in the English and continental centers.

Lecture 1.

Lecture 1 of the series will include Arthur Wilde and the Drawing Room Comedy; lecture 2, Ibsen, Ibsenism and the Dramatic Play; lecture 3, the Dramatic Poetic and Romantic Drama; lecture 4, "The Drama of Mysticism and Symbolism."

Review reading of the following plays are suggested by the lecture series: lecture 1 suggests "Lady Winderemere's Fan"; "A Woman of No Importance"; "The Importance of Being Earnest"; "An Ideal Husband"; "The Merchant of Venice"; "The Ibsen's "Peer Gynt" and Maeterlinck's "Pellens and Melisande" will repay careful study.

Prince of Wales Goes on Strike; Too Many Jobs

BY CHARLES M. McCANN.

London, October 16.—The Prince of Wales has gone on strike against the multitudinous duties imposed on him as heir to the throne.

His recent announcement that in the future he would be unable to accept invitations to dinners of organizations which were not of national character or in which he was not personally interested, was a sequel to his effort to take a vacation a few weeks earlier.

New York, October 17.—Counsel for Mrs. Edward W. ("Peaches") Downing will be consulted tomorrow to prepare for legal action in answer to her husband's suit for divorce, filed yesterday at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Her guardian, N. Otis Rockwood, New York lawyer, said tonight that he had taken no further steps in making after her interests, other than notifying her of his court appointment.

He added that she had requested him to consult counsel tomorrow.

"Peaches" continues to write daily newspaper articles, with occasional relations on the part of her husband, and has been married to Friday, with a failure of his girl-wife to return to any of his three homes, the romantic alter drove to Poughkeepsie with an attorney and had papers filed regarding desertion.

A WOMAN'S BATTLE

A woman who is fighting for her health and her family's happiness is a valiant soldier. She wages her battle in her own kitchen. She has no thrilling bugles to cheer her on, no waving banners. Often she becomes discouraged for ill health is a powerful foe to contend with.

For more than half a century, women have found Lydia E. Pinkett's Vegetable Compound a faithful ally in their struggle for better health.

Have you become discouraged by their stock, but nowadays that is changed and every farmer devotes his acreage to corn. Sweet potatoes, peanuts, sugar cane, peaches, and crops are all planted more largely than formerly and the hay crop year is probably the best ever here.

FIFTH MAN HELD IN BANK LOOTING

Pittsburgh, Pa., October 17.—(AP)—A fifth arrest was made today in Pittsburgh's nearly half-million dollar bank fraud and detective were sent to Detroit and Buffalo in an effort to apprehend Charles E. Knapp, who disappeared Friday with between $225,000 and $250,000, part of which belonged to the Brotherhood Savings and Trust company, a labor institution. It also developed that an attempt was made to trap a group of men believed to have been the same ones who defrauded the bank and that the securities may have been part of the alleged hidden assets of a local banker, recently convicted on embezzlement charges.

The fifth arrest, which is in addition to three officers of the bank and a man who assisted in completing the pool to buy the bonds, was that of Frank Smith, alias Frank Guimario, of Pittsburgh. Police said the man's real name was Guimario and that he was wanted at Clearfield, Pa., for a $6,500 stock swindle which he and Knapp were alleged to have perpetrated last spring.

Memphian Killed When He Insists On Friend Drinking

Memphis, Tenn., October 17.—(AP)—His insistence that an acquaintance take a drink of whisky led to the killing of W. T. Taylor, 31, late last night, according to police today. Claude H. Pierce is sought as the slayer.

Taylor's body, sitting erect in a chair with his throat slashed was found in his room. A woman who declared she witnessed the quarrel which led to Taylor's death, said that Pierce entered the house and asked for a match. Taylor, according to the woman's story, offered Pierce a drink which was refused. Taylor became insistent she said, and the two men began fighting. Police were called and when they arrived Taylor was found dead.

The Answer to some Merchant's problem

A SMALL shop in the right location is better than a large store in a street out of the shoppers' beaten path.

Turn-over is larger, profits are bigger, overhead is less.

There is a shop in the Peachtree Arcade available at this time that many thousands of people with money to spend pass every day. It is in the Heart of Atlanta where the shops in this building and the stores on all sides for blocks around, collectively, do millions of dollars in business every year.

Tenants and shoppers here are extended every convenience and a variety of services that have established for the shops in the Peachtree Arcade the goodwill of the best trade in Atlanta. Rest rooms, information booth, restaurant, post office, garage, and many other advantages.

The right party is invited to call or write.

MORNINGSIDE CHURCH LAYS CORNERSTONE

With impressive ceremony the cornerstone of the Sunday school building of the Morningside Presbyterian church was laid Sunday afternoon.

Approximately 300 persons attended the services.

The congregation was congratulated for its enterprise and progressiveness in erecting the structure by Dr. J. Sprole Lyons, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and the Rev. William H. Russell, superintendent of home missions for the Atlanta presbytery.

The Rev. Carl W. McMurray, the pastor, presided, and in a short address reviewed the history of the church, which the congregation has passed in attaining the building.

Records of the church, placed in the cornerstone by D. G. Jefferies, clerk of the session, showed a membership of 101. Sunday school enrollment is 221. It was shown in the records placed in the stone by E. W. Bandy, superintendent, Mrs. P. W. Schanck, president of the city council, and Mrs. E. L. Bandy, J. S. Barabazon, C. M. Lanham and Dr. Lyons.

Actual placing of the cornerstone was done by P. D. Christian, Sr., chairman of the building committee; E. L. Bandy, J. S. Barabazon, C. M. Lanham and Dr. Lyons.

100 FIRE CHIEFS ENTERTAINED HERE BY CODY AND DOBBS

Five score fire chiefs from as many cities in the north and east Sunday afternoon were guests of Fire Chief W. B. Cody and Alderman W. Guy Dobbs, of the city council fire committee, at dinner in the Ansley hotel.

Sunday evening the visiting fire chiefs were joined by Chief Cody and Alderman Dobbs on a special train to New Orleans, where the International Firefighters' association is to hold its annual convention this week.

Chief Cody, who has been the guest of Chief Dobbs for the past several days, left with the other visitors on the special train for New Orleans.

Several short talks by visiting fire chiefs were made at the luncheon. During the day the visitors were shown over the city.

L. A. MCCLURE DIES IN CANTON HOME

Canton, Ga., October 17.—(Special)—L. A. McClure, 65, lifelong resident and prominent citizen of Cherokee county, died at his home here today.

He is survived by his widow, three daughters, Mrs. Edward Youngman, of Atlanta, and Misses Rochelle and Dale McClure, of Canton; one son, M. R. McClure, of Etowah, Tenn.

Paris Writers Plan To Kill Hard Collars

Last Vestige of Man's Armor Plate Is About To Disappear.

Paris, October 17.—(United News.)—The last vestige of man's armorplate—the hard-collared collar—is slated for oblivion. In Paris a league, made up of writers, composers and artists has been organized under the banner of the "anti-collared collar" to exterminate the starched necktie.

France, more than America or England, needs such a movement, for French collars are stiff and rigid and American cuffs in height and rigidity have been a source of complaint.

Records of the league, placed in the cornerstone by D. G. Jefferies, clerk of the session, showed a membership of 101. Sunday school enrollment is 221. It was shown in the records placed in the stone by E. W. Bandy, superintendent, Mrs. P. W. Schanck, president of the city council, and Mrs. E. L. Bandy, J. S. Barabazon, C. M. Lanham and Dr. Lyons.

Keyes To Resume Charge of Probe At Aimee Hearing

Los Angeles, Cal., October 17.—(AP)—The story about the kidnappers in the Aimee Semple McPherson conspiracy case will be resumed at the evangelist's hearing tomorrow morning by Miss Bernice Morris, of Long Beach.

Miss Morris was the secretary of R. A. McKinley, blind attorney, recently killed in an automobile accident, who it is alleged was approached by Mrs. McPherson to locate the alleged kidnappers whom the evangelist says held her prisoner for nearly a month in a shack in Sonoma, Mexico.

It is alleged that Mrs. McPherson sought the aid of Miss Morris in locating her abductors after the death of McKinley. Miss Morris, considered one of the state's star witnesses, had been on the stand only 15 minutes yesterday when adjournment was taken until Monday.

District Attorney Aimee Keyes, who has been confined at home for a few days with a slight illness, tomorrow expects to resume charge of the hearing which has been in the hands of E. J. Dennison, his deputy.

A. S. Page, who identified himself as a floor dancing companion of Mrs. McPherson, said last night at Salinas, Cal., that he was "Steve"—one of the evangelist's alleged abductors. Page is in jail for forgery and officials declined to take his story seriously. The state contends the story of the abductors is a myth.

Mrs. McPherson conducted the usual services at Angelus temple today.

Negro Girl Hit by Car.

Mary Alice Williams, a negro girl, 4 years old, was hit by an automobile driven by Mrs. W. B. Tanner, 157 Ormond street, S. W., Sunday night. Mrs. Tanner said the negro child ran out into the street directly into the path of her car and that she had struck the child before it was possible to bring her car to a stop. The negro girl suffered a fracture of the left leg and was carried to her home by Mrs. Tanner after receiving treatment at Grady hospital. Mrs. Tanner then reported the accident to the police. No case was made.

Funeral Notices

JOHNSON—Mrs. W. F. Johnson died last night at a private sanitarium. The remains were removed to the parlors of Harry G. Poole. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

BEARDEN—Funeral of Mrs. Sarah E. Bearden, who died at the residence, 19 Ponders avenue, Saturday night, was held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment in Crest Hill cemetery. Atwity & Lowndes, funeral directors.
